A startling debut novel from a powerful new voice featuring one of the most remarkable narrators of recent fiction: a conflicted subversive and idealist working as a double agent in the aftermath of the Vietnam War

The Sympathizer
Viet Thanh Nguyen

MARKETING
Nguyen is an award-winning short story writer—his story “The Other Woman” won the 2007 Gulf Coast Barhleme Prize for Short Prose
Nguyen is codirector of the Diasporic Vietnamese Artists Network and edits a blog on Vietnamese arts and culture
Published to coincide with the fortieth anniversary of the Fall of Saigon prepublication reading copies
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss
8-city tour (Boston • New York City • Washington, D.C. • San Diego • Los Angeles • San Francisco • Portland • Seattle)
major off-the-book page coverage
major review coverage
library marketing including ALA
featured at Winter Institute literary blog outreach publication buzz campaign
IndieBound bookseller outreach campaign online promotion (vietnguyen.info)
Twitter @viet_t_nguyen

“Magisterial. A disturbing, fascinating and darkly comic take on the fall of Saigon and its aftermath and a powerful examination of guilt and betrayal. The Sympathizer is destined to become a classic and redefine the way we think about the Vietnam War and what it means to win and to lose.” —T. C. Boyle

A profound, startling, and beautifully crafted debut novel, The Sympathizer is the story of a man of two minds, someone whose political beliefs clash with his individual loyalties. In dialogue with but diametrically opposed to the narratives of the Vietnam War that have preceded it, this novel offers an important and unfamiliar new perspective on the war: that of a conflicted communist sympathizer.

It is April 1975, and Saigon is in chaos. At his villa, a general of the South Vietnamese army is drinking whiskey and, with the help of his trusted captain, drawing up a list of those who will be given passage aboard the last flights out of the country. The general and his compatriots start a new life in Los Angeles, unaware that one among their number, the captain, is secretly observing and reporting on the group to a higher-up in the Viet Cong.

The Sympathizer is the story of this captain: a man brought up by an absent French father and a poor Vietnamese mother, a man who went to university in America, but returned to Vietnam to fight for the Communist cause. Viet Thanh Nguyen’s astonishing novel takes us inside the mind of this double agent, a man whose lofty ideals necessitate his betrayal of the people closest to him. A gripping spy novel, an astute exploration of extreme politics, and a moving love story, The Sympathizer explores a life between two worlds and examines the legacy of the Vietnam War in literature, film, and the wars we fight today.
Excerpt

I am a spy, a sleeper, a spook, a man of two faces. Perhaps not surprisingly, I am also a man of two minds. I am not some misunderstood mutant from a comic book or a horror movie, although some have treated me as such. I am simply able to see any issue from both sides. Sometimes I flatter myself that this is a talent, and although it is admittedly one of a minor nature, it is perhaps also the sole talent I possess. At other times, when I reflect on how I cannot help but observe the world in such a fashion, I wonder if what I have should even be called talent. After all, a talent is something you use, not something that uses you. The talent you cannot use, the talent that possesses you—that is a hazard, I must confess. But in the month when this confession begins, my way of seeing the world still seemed more of a virtue than a danger, which is how all virtues first appear.

The month in question was April, the cruelest month. It was the month in which a war that had run on for a very long time would lose its limbs, as is the way of wars. It was a month that meant everything to all the people in our small part of the world and nothing to most people in the rest of the world. It was a month that was both an end of a war and the beginning of . . . well, “peace” is not the right word, is it, my dear commandant?

VIET THANH NGUYEN was born in Vietnam and raised in America. His stories have appeared in Best New American Voices, TriQuarterly, Narrative, and the Chicago Tribune and he is the author of the academic book Race and Resistance. He teaches English and American Studies at the University of Southern California and lives in Los Angeles.

PRAISE FOR THE SYMPATHIZER

“It is a strong, strange and liberating joy to read this book, feeling with each page that a broken world is being knitted back together, once again whole and complete. As far as I am concerned, Viet Thanh Nguyen’s The Sympathizer—both a great American novel and a great Vietnamese novel—will close the shelf on the literature of the Vietnam War.”
—Bob Shacochis, author of The Woman Who Lost Her Soul

“Read this novel with care; it is easy to read, wry, ironic, wise, and captivating, but it could change not only your outlook on the Vietnam War, but your outlook on what you believe about politics and ideology in general. It does what the best of literature does, expands your consciousness beyond the limitations of your body and individual circumstances.”
—Karl Marlantes, author of Matterhorn and What It Is Like to Go to War

“Not only does Viet Thanh Nguyen bring a rare and authentic voice to the body of American literature generated by the Vietnam War, he has created a book that transcends history and politics and nationality and speaks to the enduring theme of literature: the universal quest for self, for identity. The Sympathizer is a stellar debut by a writer of depth and skill.”
—Robert Olen Butler, Pulitzer Prize–winning author of A Good Scent from a Strange Mountain

“I think I’d have to go all the way back to Nabokov’s Humbert Humbert to find the last narrative voice that so completely conked me over the head and took me prisoner. Nguyen and his unnamed protagonist certainly have made a name for themselves with one of the smartest, darkest, funniest books you’ll read this year.”
—David Abrams, author of Fobbit

“Audaciously and vividly imagined. A compelling read.”
—Andrew X. Pham, author of Catfish and Mandala
From one of America’s most important contemporary playwrights, a definitive collection of work, including two never-before-published plays, interspersed with personal essays unique to this volume—a memoir in plays

Selected Works

A Memoir in Plays

Terrence McNally

“Terrence McNally is one of our most original and audacious dramatists, and one of our funniest.”
—New Yorker

Since his first play, And Things That Go Bump in the Night, which premiered in 1965, McNally has proven himself to be a trailblazing figure in American theater, known for his exploration of gay themes and his chronicling of America’s changing social attitudes over the past fifty years. In Selected Works, for the very first time, McNally collects a set of eight plays that he considers the most important of his oeuvre, including the Tony-nominated Mothers and Sons and the critically acclaimed And Away We Go, neither of which have been previously published. Introducing each play with a personal essay that recounts an anecdote or discusses an aspect of the play that proceeds it, McNally himself frames his own life in the theater.

“Terrence McNally’s vision celebrates the bravery of lonely souls; his voice resounds with the anguish and joy of life itself. Out of the mundane, he shapes the opera of the human heart. I look with wonder at this body of work.”
—Swoosie Kurtz

“McNally is chronicling the revolutionary changes he has seen in the lives of gay Americans—and what playwright has more right to do so? McNally, seventy-five, who got married in 2010, writes here with the moral authority of one who has chronicled this fast-moving history in real, dramatic time.”
—Chicago Tribune, on Mothers and Sons

The winner of four Tony Awards, TERRENCE McNALLY is the author of such critically acclaimed plays as Love! Valour! Compassion! and Masterland Class. He has also written a number of TV scripts, including Andre’s Mother, for which he won an Emmy Award. McNally has received two Guggenheim Fellowships, a Rockefeller Grant, a Lucille Lortel Award, the Hull-Warriner Award for Best Play on two occasions, and a citation from the American Academy of Arts and Letters. He lives in New York.

Mothers and Sons was nominated for the Tony Award for Best Play.
The eight plays included are The Lisbon Traviata; Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune; Lips Together, Teeth Apart; Love! Valour! Compassion!; A Perfect Ganesh; Master Class; And Away We Go; and Mothers and Sons.

Targeted outreach to theater media
Online reviews and features

$35.00 (Canada: $38.99)
6 x 9, 704 pp.
Drama (DRA001000)
978-0-8021-2357-2
U.S. and Canadian rights: Grove Press

All other rights: William Morris Endeavor Entertainment LLC (New York, tel.: 212-586-5100)
Carton quantity: 20
Export: USCO
Residence: New York City
Internationally bestselling crime writer Val McDermid picks up the scalpel to uncover the secrets of forensic science, from the crime scene to the courtroom

Forensics

What Bugs, Burns, Prints, DNA and More Tell Us About Crime

Val McDermid

Val McDermid is one of the finest crime writers we have, whose novels have captivated millions of readers worldwide with their riveting narratives of complex crimes and unimaginable evil. In the course of researching her bestselling novels, McDermid has become familiar with every branch of forensics, and now she uncovers the history of this science, real-world murders, and the people who must solve them.

The dead talk—to the right listener. They can tell us all about themselves: where they came from, how they lived, how they died, and, of course, who killed them. Forensic scientists can unlock the mysteries of the past and help serve justice using the messages left by a corpse, a crime scene, or the faintest of human traces. Forensics goes behind the scenes with some of these top-level professionals and their groundbreaking research, drawing on Val McDermid’s own original interviews and firsthand experience on scene with top forensic scientists.

Along the way, McDermid discovers how maggots collected from a corpse can help determine one’s time of death; how a DNA trace a millionth the size of a grain of salt can be used to convict a killer; and how a team of young Argentine scientists led by a maverick American anthropologist were able to uncover the victims of a genocide. It’s a journey that will take McDermid to war zones, fire scenes, and autopsy suites, and bring her into contact with both extraordinary bravery and wickedness, as she traces the history of forensics from its earliest beginnings to the cutting-edge science of the modern day.

© ALAN MCCREDIE

A former journalist and Northern Bureau Chief of a national UK tabloid, VAL McDERMID is the bestselling author of The Skeleton Road and twenty-eight previous novels, three story collections, and the nonfiction book A Suitable Job for a Woman, an inside look at female private investigators. She lives in Scotland.

MARKETING

Multiple finalist for the Edgar Award
McDermid’s books have sold eleven million copies worldwide
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss national media campaign including print and radio interviews promotion at BEA and ALA online promotion (valmcdermid.com)
Twitter @valmcdermid
also available as a Recorded Books audiobook

$25.00 (Canada: $27.50)
6 x 9, 320 pp.
SCI034000 (Social Science)
978-0-8021-2391-6
U.S. and Canadian rights: Grove Press
All other rights: InkWell Management
(New York, tel.: 212-922-3500)
Carton quantity: 28
Export: USCOxE
Residence: Scotland
A keen and brilliant observer of the strangeness that is American suburbia. Acampora joins the ranks of writers like John Cheever and Tom Perrotta in her incisive portrait of lives intersecting in one Connecticut town.

The Wonder Garden
Lauren Acampora

MARKETING
Acampora’s fiction has appeared in the Paris Review, Prairie Schooner, and the Columbia Review, among others.
Acampora was a recipient of the 2013 Lawrence Foundation Award and the Francis Mason Harris Prize in Poetry from Brown University.

prepublication reading copies
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss
East Coast tour (including Boston, Connecticut, New York City, and Washington, D.C.)
major review coverage
online reviews and features
library marketing including ALA
featured at Winter Institute
prepublication buzz campaign with giveaways on Shelf Awareness and PW
IndieBound bookseller outreach campaign
Twitter @laurenacampora

John likes to arrive first. He enjoys standing quietly with a house before his clients arrive, and today, although he feels pinned beneath an invisible weight, he resolves to savor this solitary moment. It’s one of those overhauled ranches so common to Old Cranbury these days, swollen and dressed to resemble a colonial. White, of course, with ornamental shutters and latches pretending to hold them open. A close echo of its renovated sisters on Whistle Hill Road, garnished with hostas and glitzed with azaleas. He has seen too many of these to count . . .

A man strikes an under-the-table deal with a surgeon to spend a few quiet seconds closer to his wife than he’s ever been; a young soon-to-be mother looks on in paralyzing astonishment as her husband walks away from a twenty-year career in advertising at the urging of his spirit animal; an elderly artist risks more than he knows when he’s commissioned by his newly arrived neighbors to produce the work of a lifetime.

In her stunning debut The Wonder Garden, Lauren Acampora gathers with enchanting realism the myriad lives of a suburban town and lays them bare. These intricately interwoven stories take a trenchant look at the flawed people of Old Cranbury, the supposedly ordinary lives they lead, and the secrets they try so desperately to hide. Acampora’s characters are neighbors, lovers, friends, who, beneath their dreamy suburban surface, are nothing like they appear. These incisive tales reveal at each turn the unseen battles we play out behind drawn blinds, the creeping truths from which we distract ourselves, and the massive dreams we haul quietly with us and hold close.

Deliciously creepy and masterfully choreographed, The Wonder Garden heralds the arrival of a phenomenal new talent in American fiction.
“You know, I have to say, I feel bad for the children,” April Carlson remarks, when they are all sitting. “I know they’re lucky to escape Africa, I know things would have been worse for them there, but I can’t help thinking how hard it must be to look so different from their adoptive families.”

April is fresh and blond, in clam diggers and espadrilles, though it is barely Memorial Day. It is clear, just from hearing her glass-chime voice, that she has no real worries to speak of. But it is impossible to be sure. All these women guard the details of their lives. Like surfacing whales, they arch their smooth rounds only briefly into view. The great bulks remain underwater. Once a month, they appear, breathe one another in, then dive again. There are alcoholic husbands, certainly. There are prescription drugs, cosmetic surgeries, eating disorders. There must be shames in this room dark or darker than Suzanne’s own.

The women nod at April’s comment, some tightening their mouths as if in contemplation. Leanne Vogel tells of a friend with an adopted Chinese daughter, the quizzical looks they receive from supermarket cashiers. There is a general murmur. Swiftly, the discussion shifts to same-sex parenting, then to gay marriage, then to tax evasion.

PRAISE FOR THE WONDER GARDEN

“The Wonder Garden is a beautiful book: witty, intelligent, deeply compassionate, and gorgeously crafted. Lauren Acampora is uncannily skilled at chronicling the emotional lives of her characters with the same razor-sharp precision as she does the suburban landscape that surrounds them. I can’t stop thinking about these stories.”

—Molly Antopol, author of The UnAmericans

“Lauren Acampora’s linked stories, about one Connecticut town, vividly explore dark interiors as well as polished facades. The Wonder Garden is an elegant construction and a chronicle of the surprising ways in which suburban lives intersect. Lauren Acampora is a writer of extraordinary dexterity.”—Elliott Holt, author of You Are One of Them

“I loved The Wonder Garden. Acampora’s writing moves like a laser through her characters’ souls, finding the deepest, darkest truths and delusions. Every story surprises. Every story is devastating. Like Mad Men set in the present day, but better.”

—Heidi Pitlor, author of The Birthdays
From naked grocery shopping to the Big Nude Boat, a comic novelist turned narrative journalist lays bare the world of the nudist

Naked at Lunch
A Reluctant Nudist’s Adventures in the Clothing-Optional World
Mark Haskell Smith

People have been getting naked in public for reasons other than sex for centuries. But as novelist and narrative journalist Mark Haskell Smith shows in Naked at Lunch, being a nudist is more complicated than simply dropping trou. “Nonsexual social nudism,” as it’s called, rose to prominence in the late nineteenth century. Intellectuals, outcasts, and health nuts from Victorian England and colonial India to Belle Époque France and Gilded Age Manhattan disrobed and wrote manifestos about the joys of going clothing-free. From stories of ancient Greek athletes slathered in olive oil to the millions of Germans who fled the cities for a naked frolic during the Weimar Republic to American soldiers given “naturist” magazines by the Pentagon in the interest of preventing sexually transmitted diseases, Haskell Smith uncovers nudism’s amusing and provocative past.

Naked at Lunch is equal parts cultural history and gonzo participatory journalism. Coated in multiple layers of high SPF sunblock, Haskell Smith dives into the nudist world today. He publicly disrobes for the first time in Palm Springs, observes the culture of family nudism in a clothing-free Spanish town, and travels to the largest nudist resort in the world, a hedonist’s paradise in the south of France. He reports on San Francisco’s controversial ban on public nudity, participates in a week of naked hiking in the Austrian Alps, and caps off his adventures with a week on the Big Nude Boat, a Caribbean cruise full of nudists.
First I went to the greengrocer and bought lettuce, olives, yellow plums, fresh figs, some cherry tomatoes, and a cucumber. Has a grocery run ever sounded so exciting? Were the other people in the store naked? Yes, everyone but the employees was pretty much as naked as I was. Were there “hot” women and “well-hung” dudes? Why yes, I seem to recall that there were plenty of both. Did it infuse squeezing the tomatoes with an illicit frisson? Did looking at the vinegar selection become compellingly erotic? Not really. Although I will admit I was incredibly self-conscious squeezing past people in the crowded aisles.

My wife demanded photographic evidence of this excursion, but when I asked the cashier if she would take a photo of me she blew air through her lips in that curious French way and said, “Cochon.” Which means “pig.” I didn’t ask for a photo at the bakery, it was too crowded, but I did get a nice little quiche with Roquefort and a fresh baguette.

I hit the wine store, where I had gotten into a lively conversation with the owner the day before. He had recommended a particularly good local wine, so I asked him to recommend a rosé from the area. Perhaps it was because we had established a rapport, or maybe because he just recognized a good customer when he saw one, but he and his wife did not call me a pig; they laughed and snapped a photo. And no, you can’t see it. You probably don’t want to.

From the immensely talented author of The Blood of Heaven, compared by reviewers to Faulkner, O’Connor, and McCarthy, comes a gothic portrait of a city ravaged by war and struck by vice and disease—Civil War New Orleans

Secessia
Kent Wascom

With the virtuosic, richly historical prose that marked The Blood of Heaven, Wascom carves a gothic tale of insurrection and ill-advised romance, spanning one year in the city at the heart of Secessia, the rebellious just-conquered South.

New Orleans, May 1862. The largest city in the ill-starred confederacy has fallen to Union troops under the soon-to-be-infamous General Benjamin “the Beast” Butler. Twelve-year-old Joseph Woolsack disappears from his home, putting his mother Elise into a panic and his father Angel into a rage. Joseph must come to grips with his father’s legacy of violence, as chronicled in The Blood of Heaven, and his growing affection for his neighbor, the Cuban orphan girl Marina Fandal. Elise must struggle to maintain a hold on her sanity, her son and her station, but is threatened by the resurgence of a troubling figure from her past, Dr. Emile Sabatier, a fanatical physician who adores disease and is deeply mired in the conspiracy and intrigue surrounding the occupation of the city. These characters’ paths all intersect with General Benjamin Butler of Massachusetts, a man who history will call a beast, but whose avarice and brutal acumen are ideally suited to the task of governing an “ungovernable city.” Secessia weaves a tapestry of ravenous greed and malformed love, of slavery and desperation, set within the baroque melting-pot that was wartime New Orleans.
A grunt, a scratch of boot heels sliding down the oystershell, and before Joseph can turn he is overcome by the accustomed terror of the grip of his father’s hand, which does the job for him, jarring the birthday pistol from its hiding place so that he must fumble and snatch for it, cupping it close as if it were an egg as he is brought round to face the single blue eye, the patch worked with a gilded cross like a gun-sight, a coda, fixed on him, the features a frozen maelstrom of scarring. The true eye glowers, from Joseph’s to what he holds; the hand does not let go, it is strong from overuse, for his father has no other—the stump of his right twitches at its pinning of folded sleeve as though it seeks also to possess him. Joseph feels spectral fingers at his throat, staunching his yelp at the sight of the pistol he points now at his father’s chest.

“And what’ll you do with that?” The old man bends, his lone eye thins. A laugh escapes his lips like an inmate from the madhouse. “Boy, I’ve killed men whose spilled guts were bigger than you.”

His father speaks with more than words but the doubling of pale cudgel-splits, the indentations of rifle butts where his white hair claws far back on his scalp.

“Go on. Go on and fire like I taught you.”

---

Excerpt

Kent Wascom is the author of the highly acclaimed debut novel The Blood of Heaven. Wascom was awarded the 2012 Tennessee Williams/New Orleans Literary Festival Prize for Fiction. He lives in Louisiana.

---

PRAISE FOR THE BLOOD OF HEAVEN

“Kent Wascom, a twenty-six-year-old Louisiana native, has produced an astonishingly assured debut. . . . He is more knowing than a writer his age has any right to be and displays a virtuosic command of biblical cadence and anachronistic vernacular without striking any false notes.”—San Francisco Chronicle

“So compelling. Mr. Wascom’s writing rolls from the page in torrents, like the sermon of a revivalist preacher in the grip of inspiration. You can’t help listening, no matter how wicked the message.”—Wall Street Journal

“An exceptionally eloquent and assured debut by a novelist who is still only in his twenties.”—Sunday Times (UK)

“The work of a young writer with tremendous ambition . . . Wascom writes with a fire-breathing, impassioned eloquence. Angel’s voice compels our trust from the beginning and echoes all the ghosts of the dark Southern past.”—Washington Post

“If you thought the Wild West was wild, wait until you read about West Florida. In Kent Wascom’s stunning debut novel that territory serves as microcosm of a nation’s dark and violent infancy . . . Kent Wascom is a striking new voice in American fiction.”—Miami Herald

“Whether describing a tender moment between husband and wife or a brutal revenge killing, there’s no question of Wascom’s range. . . . There is plenty here to applaud in this grim portrait of a dysfunctional frontier family caught up in a forgotten American war.”—NPR Books
From New York Times notable author David Payne, “the most gifted American novelist of his generation” (Dallas Morning News), comes an astonishing memoir of brotherhood, grief, and mental illness.

Barefoot to Avalon

David Payne

"A defining voice for his generation... Payne is extraordinarily gifted."

—Boston Globe

In 2000, while moving his household from Vermont to North Carolina, author David Payne watched from his rearview mirror as his younger brother, George A., driving behind him in a two-man convoy of rental trucks, lost control of his vehicle, fishtailed, flipped over in the road, and died instantly. Soon thereafter, David's life entered a downward spiral that lasted several years. His career came to a standstill, his marriage disintegrated, and his drinking went from a cocktail hour indulgence to a full-blown addiction. He found himself haunted not only by George A.’s death, but also by his brother’s manic depression, a hereditary illness that overlaid a dark and violent family history whose roots now gripped David, threatening both his and his children’s futures. The only way out, he found, was to write about his brother.

Barefoot to Avalon is Payne’s earnest and unflinching account of George A. and their boyhood footrace that lasted long into their adulthood, defining their relationship and their lives. As universal as it is intimate, this is an exceptional memoir of brotherhood, of sibling rivalry and sibling love, and of the torments a family can hold silent and carry across generations. Barefoot to Avalon is a brave and beautifully wrought gift, a true story not only of survival in the face of adversity but of hard-won wisdom.

"[Payne] writes of a people and a place from deep in his heart. He knows the hopes, fears and habits of his characters, and weaves a powerful, lyrical story that is a joy to read."

—New York Times Book Review
Looking at the Winston glowing on his thigh, I almost say something about my pristine ashtray.

—Thanks, George A., I choose instead.

—It’s no big deal.

—No, seriously, man, I say. I couldn’t have done this without you. You’re a good brother.

These are words he hasn’t heard from me in quite some time. He contemplates them for a beat that stretches uncomfortably, and then he raises the Winston to his lips, inhaling openly. “It’s okay, David,” he says, and blows his smoke the other way, toward the shotgun seat.

As the Winston brightens near his face, the darkness in the cab seems like a pliant membrane into which his features press—the high cheekbones and strong chin, the black, pelt-thick hair already threaded, at forty-two, with silver. The dim light conceals the two black eyes he carries always by this time, like a fighter who’s staggered on the ropes night after night for years. In the eight months or a year since I’ve seen him, those circles have darkened noticeably, a sign of stress on his adrenals. The tremor in his hands is more pronounced than I remember, and there’s a new floating in his walk like an astronaut in zero gravity or a somnambulist. He was so good-looking once, and splendid physically, with his broad shoulders and warm, deep eyes, dark as a Spaniard’s or a Russian’s, like Margaret’s. He reminded me of a young Clark Gable, only the confidence in Gable that flirted with conceit and smugness, in George A. was nuanced, sly and sweet. For a moment in the cab’s deceptive light, he resembles that other person, the boy and young man in that picture on the beach, the photo I think of as Before, as in before his illness, and have carried with me and put out in every house I’ve ever lived in.

David Payne is the author of five novels, including Confessions of a Taoist on Wall Street, winner of the Houghton Mifflin Literary Fellowship Award; Ruin Creek, a New York Times Notable Book; and Back to Wando Passo. Payne has taught at Bennington, Duke, and Hollins and is a founding faculty member in the Queens University MFA program.

PRAISE FOR DAVID PAYNE

“[Payne has] the makings of a young Charles Dickens—a consummate storyteller in love with language and all the variations of life, people, and improbable situations.”—Businessweek

“Some of the strongest, most demanding writing to be found in American fiction today.”—Los Angeles Times

“Wildly readable.”—Washington Post

“A master stylist, Payne breathes life into his material, cloaking it in rich, evocative prose.”—Richmond Times-Dispatch

“[Payne] burns as brightly as any writer of his generation.”—Pat Conroy

“David Payne is a writer whom readers take personally, a novelist who speaks to their lives, whose books become part of their experience . . . Payne sees and hears the human reality in every situation . . . Payne sees his characters for who they are, accepts them, loves them, and joins their voices in a hymn of life.”—Boston Globe
Congratulations to Richard Flanagan, Man Booker Prize Winner 2014

BACKLIST AVAILABLE

Praise for Gould’s Book of Fish

“Gould’s Book of Fish is a novel about fish the way Moby-Dick is a novel about whales, or Ulysses is a novel about the events of a single day. . . . A wondrous, phantasmagorical meditation on art and history and nature.” —Michiko Kakutani, New York Times

978-0-8021-3959-7 • $16 • Paperback • Jan. 2003

Praise for The Sound of One Hand Clapping

“Heart-wrenching and beautifully written . . . This novel is a rare and remarkable achievement.” —Peter Green, Los Angeles Times Book Review

978-0-8021-3784-5 • $16 • Paperback • Mar. 2001

Praise for Death of a River Guide

“A fascinating and truly complex tale of Faulknerian depth, a book informed by As I Lay Dying and Gabriel García Márquez’s Chronicle of a Death Foretold. . . . Like going into the world itself, we find ourselves changed after reading this book.”

—Dan Oko, Austin Chronicle

978-0-8021-3863-7 • $13 • Paperback • Mar. 2002

Praise for The Unknown Terrorist

“In this stunning and brilliant and roaring book he shouts the question loudly to be heard in every nation ranged against brooding Bin Laden and his teams of killers: Is our own paranoia dragging us down faster than the coward in the cave could ever dream?” —Brian Doyle, Oregonian

978-0-8021-4354-9 • $14 • Paperback • Feb. 2008

Praise for Wanting

“Rich and three-dimensional . . . Nineteenth-century London comes alive as indeed does Dickens himself . . . Tasmania’s silences resound with voices.”

978-0-8021-4477-5 • $14 • Paperback • June 2010
ATLANTIC MONTHLY PRESS
Hardcovers

Congratulations to Richard Flanagan, Man Booker Prize Winner 2014
BACKLIST AVAILABLE
In the latest novel in the New York Times bestselling series, Commissario Guido Brunetti returns to Venice’s famed La Fenice theater to investigate a case of obsession in the world of opera.

Falling in Love

An A Commissario Guido Brunetti Mystery

Donna Leon

MARKETING

By its Cover debuted at #7 on the New York Times bestseller list and reached #2 on the Boston Globe bestseller list, #3 on the NEIBA list, and #5 on the Washington Post list.

Donna Leon’s Commissario Guido Brunetti mysteries have sold over two million copies in North America.

prepublication reading copies
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss
major review coverage
national print and feature attention
library marketing including ALA
online advertising, including Goodreads
national advertising campaign (including the New York Times Book Review) reading group guide available online at groveatlantic.com online promotion (donnaleon.net)
backlist eBook promotions
also available as a Recorded Books audiobook

“No one is more graceful and accomplished than Leon.”—Washington Post

Donna Leon’s Death at La Fenice, the first novel in her beloved Commissario Guido Brunetti series, introduced readers to the dazzling world of Venetian opera and Italy’s finest living female soprano, Flavia Petrelli—then a suspect in the poisoning of a renowned German conductor. After Brunetti kept her out of prison and went on to save the life of her female American lover in Acqua Alta, Flavia has once again returned to Venice and La Fenice to perform the lead in Tosca, and Brunetti has tickets to an early show.

The night he and his wife, Paola, attend, Flavia gives a stunning performance to a standing ovation. Back in her dressing room, she finds bouquets of yellow roses—too many roses. Every surface of the room is covered with them. An anonymous fan has been showering Flavia with these beautiful gifts in London, St. Petersburg, and Amsterdam, and now, Venice, but she no longer feels flattered. A few nights later, invited by Brunetti to dine at his in-laws’ palazzo, Flavia confesses her alarm at these excessive displays of adoration. Brunetti promises to look into it. And when a talented young Venetian singer who has caught Flavia’s attention is savagely attacked, Brunetti begins to think that Flavia’s fears are justified in ways neither of them imagined. He must enter into the psyche of an obsessive fan before Flavia, or anyone else, comes to harm.
Excerpt

Flavia stopped in Campo Santo Stefano and had a pasta at Beccafico, though she paid little attention to what she ate and drank only half of the glass of Teroldego. Less, and she would not sleep; more, and she would not sleep. Then over the bridge, to the left, over the bridge at San Vio, down to the first left, key in the door, and into the cavernous entrance hall of the palazzo.

Flavia paused at the bottom of the stairs, not from tiredness so much as from habit. She played her memory of the first act, found nothing much to criticize. Same with the second. Third, and the young tenor did go a bit wobbly, but he’d had little support from the conductor. Her performance had been good.

Cheered by these thoughts, she started up the steps, appreciating the breadth of the staircase, perhaps created to allow wide-skirted women to pass one another going up and down or to walk arm in arm. She reached the landing and turned right towards the door to the apartment.

Her mouth fell open. In front of the door lay the largest bouquet of flowers she had ever seen: yellow roses, of course—though why did she think that?—five or six dozen arranged in an enormous glowing mass that, instead of providing the delight such beauty should create, filled Flavia with something close to terror.

DONNA LEON is the author of the highly acclaimed, internationally bestselling Commissario Guido Brunetti mystery series. The winner of the CWA Macallan Silver Dagger for Fiction, among other awards, Leon has lived in Venice for thirty years.

PRAISE FOR BY ITS COVER

“By its Cover will both delight and strike fear into bibliophiles’ hearts. . . . Leon offers a finely drawn tale that encompasses theft, blackmail, emotional violence, and murder, as well as a rich array of characters.”—Boston Globe

“Fans will rejoice that staples of the Brunetti canon—including conversations with his smart wife and frequent breaks for food and coffee—are very much in evidence.”—Seattle Times

“Donna Leon is one of the more unusual and satisfying writers of crime fiction in the current pantheon. . . . Not since Simenon’s Maigret have we seen a detective so devoted to the reality and complexity of everyday life.”—Sydney Morning Herald (Australia)

“Think of Leon’s latest Guido Brunetti novel as a love letter to her fans. . . . This will likely be one of his most-loved adventures.”—Booklist (starred review)

“One of her best in a long line of super efforts. . . . Brunetti’s wry internal observations and musings about everything from his superiors to his family are reason enough to come to the feast.”—Bookreporter
Through Sandy Alderson, the general manager of the New York Mets, a veteran bestselling sportswriter chronicles a thirty-year revolution in baseball and the painful rebirth of a franchise

Baseball Maverick

How Sandy Alderson Changed the Game and Revived the Mets

Steve Kettmann

MARKETING

Kettmann edited Roger Angell’s Game Time: A Baseball Companion

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss

national TV and radio coverage

major off-the-book page coverage

targeted outreach to baseball/sports media online promotion (kettmann.com)

Twitter @SteveKettmann

STEVE KETTMANN has reported from more than forty countries for publications including the New York Times and the New Republic. A former San Francisco Chronicle A’s beat writer, he is the author or coauthor of nine previous books, including One Day at Fenway and Juiced by Jose Canseco.

In 2010, the New York Mets were in trouble. One of baseball’s most valuable franchises, they had recently suffered an embarrassing end-of-the-year collapse and two bitter losing seasons. Their general manager had made costly player personnel mistakes. And to top it off, their principle owners, two major Bernie Madoff investors, were embroiled in the fallout from the largest financial scam in American history.

To whom did they turn? Sandy Alderson, a former marine who served in Vietnam and graduated from Harvard Law. Alderson started in baseball with the Oakland A’s in 1981. Two years later, he was running the team. With the A’s, Alderson led a revolution in the sport. The A’s partnered with Apple to introduce the first computers into baseball, pioneered using statistical analysis, attracted bright people, built a quality organization, and became a powerhouse, winning the 1989 World Series. When new owners slashed payroll in the 1990s, Alderson’s under-the-radar creativity and intelligent management were thrust into the spotlight.

Now, Alderson is in the midst of turning around another embattled franchise, with many expecting the Mets to be in the playoff hunt in 2015, led by a stellar pitching staff full of young guns. Granted unprecedented access to a working GM over several seasons, bestselling author Steve Kettmann follows Alderson’s renewal of the Mets despite a limited budget, from big trades that brought back high-profile prospects to the development of young aces including Matt Harvey, Zach Wheeler, and Jacob de Grom. Baseball Maverick is a gripping, behind-the-scenes look at a Major League team and a fascinating exploration of what it means to be smart.
From Baseball Maverick, on SANDY ALDERSON

“He was an extraordinarily good platoon commander. His leadership skills were absolutely perfect. He could lead anyone anywhere.”

—General P. X. Kelley, United States Marine Corps, 28th Commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps

“I found Sandy fascinating. He had such a different way of looking at things. It doesn’t seem unique now because we’re used to it, this is what you expect GMs to be, but back then, you talk about a maverick, this was a maverick. He was smart enough to know what he didn’t know, but he was also smart enough to question what everyone perceived to be as givens. He had the self-confidence to question things and look for a better way and look for another way. . . . I knew I was never going to be as smart as Sandy. Every day that I went in, I was going to learn something that was going to make me better.”

—Billy Beane

“Whether or not you want to hear it, he’s not going to give you the bs version of what he thinks— he’s going to give it to you straight. He’s going to be honest with you, and that’s something I have the utmost respect for. Those are the guys that I want to follow.”

—David Wright

Praise for One Day at Fenway

“An ambitious undertaking and a riveting read.”

—Boston Globe

“Fierce . . . fun . . . and often riveting. A rare inning-to-inning insight into the sport.”

—San Francisco Chronicle

“Fascinating. . . .

The Black Hawk Down of baseball.”

—Madison Smart Bell

“Kettmann . . . has a knack for conveying the tensions that build throughout the afternoon. He also has a great eye for detail. . . . [A] riveting book.”

—Publishers Weekly
The captivating true story of the highest-ranking CIA officer ever convicted of espionage, and the devoted son who followed him into the family spy business

The Spy’s Son

How CIA Officer Jim Nicholson Twice Betrayed Country and Kin for Russia

Bryan Denson

MARKETING

Denson's Nicholson story originated in an award-winning six-part series for The Oregonian in early 2011

Jim Nicholson is the highest-ranking CIA officer convicted of espionage, the only American twice caught spying for a foreign government, and the only man to pull it off from inside a federal prison

Film rights have been optioned to Paramount

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss

national TV, print and radio coverage

major review coverage

Twitter @Bryan_Denson

---

Investigative reporter and Pulitzer Prize finalist Bryan Denson tells the riveting and extraordinary true story of the Nicholsons—father and son co-conspirators who deceived their country by selling national secrets to Russia.

Jim Nicholson was one of the CIA's top veteran case officers. By day, he taught spycraft at the CIA's clandestine training center, The Farm. By night, he was a minivan-driving single father racing home to have dinner with his three kids. But Nicholson led a double life. For more than two years, he had met covertly with agents of Russia's foreign intelligence service in locations around the world and turned over troves of classified documents, including the identities of hundreds of trainees. In 1997, Nicholson became the highest ranking CIA officer ever convicted of espionage. But his duplicity didn't stop there.

While behind the bars of a federal prison, the former mole systematically groomed the one person he trusted most to serve as his stand-in: his youngest son, Nathan. In his early twenties, deeply depressed after suffering a serious injury during military training, Nathan was easy prey for his father. When Nicholson asked him to courier messages out of prison to his Russian contacts, Nathan saw an opportunity to not only make something of himself but to make his father proud by following him into the spy world.

The Spy’s Son is a fast-paced, thrilling account that takes readers inside the private meeting rooms of the FBI and CIA, into the intrigues of international cat-and-mouse espionage games, and behind the closed doors of a family struggling to stay together through the deepest of betrayals.
Excerpt

Jim had told his son that his meetings with the Russian were potentially dangerous. “Risky,” he had said, “but not illegal.” Nathan now suspected that couldn’t possibly be true. Facts had gotten in the way. The evidence, he knew, would show he had smuggled his dad’s notes out of the prison, carried them to first-name-only Russians in diplomatic stations in San Francisco, Mexico City, and Lima. They had paid for the information with bagfuls of hundred-dollar bills. Both his dad and the Russian had repeatedly cautioned him to keep an eye out for surveillance, and the old man had taught him basic spy skills to avoid detection—clearly signs that all was not on the up and up. It was now abundantly clear to Nathan that he and his dad were no longer just father and son, but co-conspirators tempting fate each time he met the Russian.

At precisely 7 p.m., Nathan caught a glimpse of a short, gray-haired man walking toward the restaurant. He forced himself to look away until he heard the Russian’s unmistakably precise English, words that came almost in a whisper.

“Do you know the way to the federal post office?”

Nathan turned, as if they had never met. His handler stood at five-foot-six, a couple of inches shorter than he, with white hair, dark gray eyes, and a thick neck. He would turn seventy-four the following month. Nathan was supposed to speak his end of the recognition dialogue, an exchange Russian spies call parols. But it felt pointless to him. They had now met on three continents, spent hours talking in soundproof rooms. They were, by anyone’s measure, acquainted. But Nathan wouldn’t disappoint him.

“It should be around here somewhere,” he said, lifting the prop in his hand: the map of Nicosia. “Let me show you the way.”

PRAISE FOR THE SPY’S SON

“In a stunning piece of reporting Bryan Denson has unraveled one of the strangest spy stories in American history and written a haunting book as fast paced and as exciting as the best spy novel. It will keep readers awake as he takes them deep into a world of international espionage populated by KGB and CIA agents, American spy catchers and a family they’ll never forget—and it’s all true.” —Robert Lindsey, author of The Falcon and the Snowman

“We always think of the damage a spy does to his country, and to his colleagues and friends, but seldom to his family. This is the solemn and excruciating tale of a real spy who intentionally and selfishly used his son as a go-between himself and his Russian masters after he had been caught and imprisoned, and nearly ruined his son’s life into the bargain. It is a splendid read.” —Frederick P. Hitz, former CIA inspector general, senior lecturer at University of Virginia, and author of The Great Game: The Myths and Reality of Espionage Ranging over five decades, Thrown Under the Omnibus is the definitive anthology of the work the writer the Wall Street Journal has called “the funniest writer in America”

Thrown Under the Omnibus

P. J. O’Rourke

“Whether you agree with him or not, P.J. writes a helluva piece.”—Richard Nixon

P. J. O’Rourke has had a prolific career as one of America’s most celebrated humorists. But that career almost didn’t happen. As he tells it, “I began to write for pay in the spring of 1970. To tell the truth I didn’t even mean to be a writer, I meant to be a race car driver, but I didn’t have a race car.”

Fortunately for us, he had to settle for writing. From his early pieces for the National Lampoon (“How to Drive Fast on Drugs While Getting Your Wing-Wang Squeezed and Not Spill Your Drink”), through his classic reporting as Rolling Stone‘s International Affairs editor in the ’80s and ’90s (“Among the Euroweenies”), and his brilliant, inimitable political reporting and analysis (Parliament of Whores, Give War a Chance, Eat the Rich), P.J. has been entertaining and provoking readers with high-octane prose, a gonzo republican attitude, and a rare ability to make you laugh out loud while silently reading to yourself. Chris Buckley once described his work as “S. J. Perlman on acid,” and when Penguin first published its Dictionary of Modern Humorist Quotations, P.J. had more entries than any other living writer.

For the first time, Thrown Under the Omnibus brings together his funniest, most outrageous, most controversial, and most loved pieces in the definitive P.J. reader. Handpicked and introduced by the humorist himself, Thrown Under the Omnibus is the essential P. J. O’Rourke anthology—a must have for any of his fans.

“P.J. O’Rourke is like S.J. Perelman on acid.”—Chris Buckley

“Funniest writer in America.”—Wall Street Journal
Excerpt

“Giving money and power to government is like giving whiskey and car keys to teenage boys.”

“If you say a modern celebrity is an adulterer, a pervert, and a drug addict, all it means is that you’ve read his autobiography.”

“It is a popular delusion that the government wastes vast amounts of money through inefficiency and sloth. Enormous effort and elaborate planning are required to waste this much money.”

“You know your children are growing up when they stop asking you where they came from and refuse to tell you where they’re going.”

“When buying and selling are controlled by legislation, the first things to be bought and sold are legislators.”

“It’s better to spend money like there’s no tomorrow than to spend tonight like there’s no money.”

“Wherever there’s injustice, oppression, and suffering, America will show up six months late and bomb the country next to where it’s happening.”

“The Democrats are the party that says government will make you smarter, taller, richer, and remove the crabgrass on your lawn. The Republicans are the party that says government doesn’t work and then they get elected and prove it.”

© JAMES KEGLEY

P. J. O’ROURKE has written sixteen books on subjects as diverse as politics and cars and etiquette and economics. His book about Washington, Parliament of Whores, and his book about international conflict and crisis, Give War a Chance, both reached #1 on the New York Times bestseller list. He is a contributing editor at The Weekly Standard, H.L. Mencken fellow at the Cato Institute, and a regular panelist on NPR’s Wait... Wait... Don’t Tell Me. He lives with his family in rural New England, as far away from the things he writes about as he can get.

Also Available:
The Baby Boom (978-0-8021-2290-2 • $15.00 • USCO)
Holidays in Heck (978-0-8021-4595-6 • $15.00 • USCO)
Don’t Vote—It Just Encourages the Bastards (978-0-8021-4543-7 • $14.95 • USCO)
On the Wealth of Nations (978-0-8021-4342-6 • $13.00 • USO)
Driving Like Crazy (978-0-8021-4479-9 • $14.00 • USCO)
A girl vanishes—and the lies begin. For fans of Carl Hiaasen and Nick Hornby, a gripping, highly entertaining, and carefully observed psychological thriller from Scottish crime master Christopher Brookmyre

Dead Girl Walking
Christopher Brookmyre

MARKETING
Brookmyre’s most recent novel, Bred in the Bone, was shortlisted for the Scottish Crime Book of the Year eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss targeted outreach to mystery & thriller press backlist eBook promotions online promotion (brookmyre.co.uk) Twitter @cbrookmyre

Dead Girl Walking is the latest thrilling novel from one of Scotland’s most treasured crime writers, as well known in his native country as Val McDermid, Ian Rankin, and Denise Mina. In his latest novel, he has written his most accessible book yet—a thrilling story of sex, drugs, rock ‘n’ roll, and murder.

Life is dangerous when you have everything to lose. Famous, beautiful, and talented, Heike Gunn has the world at her feet. Then, one day, she simply vanishes. Meanwhile, journalist Jack Parlabane has lost everything: his career, his marriage, his self-respect. A call for help from an old friend offers a chance for redemption—but only if he can find out what happened to Heike. Pursued by those who would punish him for past crimes, Parlabane enters the secret-filled world of Heike’s band, Savage Earth Heart, a group at the breaking point. Each of its members seems to be hiding something, not least its newest recruit Monica Halcrow, whose alleged relationship with Heike has become a public obsession. Monica’s own story, however, reveals a far darker truth. Fixated on Heike from day one, she has been engulfed by paranoia, jealousy, and fear as she discovers the hidden price of fame. From Berlin to Barcelona, from the streets of Milan to remote Scottish islands, Parlabane must dredge up old secrets to find Heike before it’s too late.

Also Available:
When the Devil Drives
(978-0-8021-2115-8 • $15 • USOxE)
Where the Bodies Are Buried
(978-0-8021-2124-0 • $15 • USOxE)
Excerpt

Maybe someday scientists will be able to pinpoint just what it is about certain people that makes them shine a little brighter and dazzle the rest of us, but for now, I can only say that Heike had something about her that made you want to be in her presence, touched by her grace.

She was aware of it too, but not in the way you might think. Maybe it was fairer to say she was wary of it: as though this siren feared that if you came too close, she might be the one drawn to her doom. Or maybe she was just scared of all the attention she got.

That's why asking direct questions about her life was right out, though it did mean that on the rare occasions when she shared something it felt all the more precious. That I alone had seen her tears on stage at Bristol that night felt like a secret treasure.

I wondered whether she liked being in this male-dominated company because she could hide there, where nobody was likely to ask her anything truly personal. We all wanted to get nearer to her, wanted in different ways to please her, but the trick was for her not to notice you were doing it, for you not to be caught trying to please her. It was like that childhood game where you all sneak up on someone with her back turned, trying to see how close you could get before she spun round and chased you all away.

PRAISE FOR CHRISTOPHER BROOKMYRE

“A strident blast of the trumpet to wake up crime fiction readers everywhere.”
—Val McDermid, on Where the Bodies Are Buried

“When the Devil Drives is a true pleasure for all detective fiction fans—think Ian Rankin by way of Agatha Christie.”
—Michael Koryta, on When the Devil Drives

“Tough Scottish humor . . . leavened with Elmore Leonard–like flourishes . . . finely controlled yet exuberant mayhem.”
—Christian Science Monitor, on Where the Bodies Are Buried

“Yet another accomplished, engaging, smart, and funny piece of crime writing, plotted and executed with no small amount of skill, style, and craft.”—Scotsman, on When the Devil Drives

“Brookmyre is building a case for gritty, violent Glasgow as the world capital of crime, and this is his best book yet.”
—Booklist (starred review) on Bred in the Bone

“Christopher Brookmyre excels. . . . a joy and a pleasure to read . . . a spellbinding storyteller . . . Incapable of writing badly . . . Brookmyre is a marvel, and Bred in the Bone is nothing less than marvelous.”
—Bookreporter

“Christopher Brookmyre is a polished stylist who spikes his smooth word-smithery with a quirky Scottish brogue.”
—Marilyn Stasio, New York Times

Bred in the Bone
A Jasmine Sharp and Catherine McLeod Novel
Christopher Brookmyre

“Explodes off the page . . . should cement Brookmyre’s reputation as one of today’s top Scottish crime writers.”—Publishers Weekly (starred review)

available as an Audible audiobook

$15.00
5½ x 8¼
Thriller (FIC031000)
978-0-8021-2368-8
U.S. rights: Grove Press
All other rights: United Agents (London, tel.: 203-214-0800)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USOX
Previous ISBN: 978-0-8021-2247-6
Residence: Glasgow, Scotland

Available in paperback in May
The break out new novel by New York Times Notable Author Mary-Beth Hughes follows a small family in the aftermath of love and disgrace in 1970s London, New York, and the Jersey Shore

The Loved Ones
Mary-Beth Hughes

“Hughes keeps her prose close to her characters’ thoughts, and doles out the most crucial information on the sly. . . . [Her] careful but unobtrusive organization gives even the saddest revelations . . . an air of the miraculous.” —New Yorker

The nationally bestselling Hughes returns with a darkly brilliant Mad Men-esque drama of family secrets and professional lies reminiscent of Richard Yates’s Revolutionary Road and James Salter’s Light Years.

From the outside in, the Devlin family lead almost-perfect lives. Dashing father, Nick, is a successful businessman long married to sweetheart Jean, who upholds the family home and throws dinner parties while daughter Lily attends Catholic school and is disciplined into modesty by the nuns. Under the surface, however, the Devlins are silently broken by the death of their little boy. As Nick’s older brother, a man driven by callous and rapacious urges, inducts Nick into the cut-throat world of cosmetics, the Devlin family are further fragmented by betrayals, and victims of the cruelest kind of hurt.

In The Loved Ones Hughes takes her gimlet eye deep into the secret places between men and women to give an incisive portrayal of one family’s struggle to stay together against stacked odds of deception, adultery, and loss. Years in the making, this is Hughes’s astonishing and compulsively readable break out, a sweepingly cinematic novel of relationships defined by an era of glamour and decadence.

MARKETING
Double Happiness was winner of a 2010 Pushcart Prize and was selected as a New York Times Notable; stories appeared in the Paris Review, St. Ann’s Review, Mississippi Review, A Public Space, Georgia Review, and Ploughshares, among others

The Wavemaker II was a national bestseller and a New York Times Notable Book for 2002

prepublication reading copies
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss
East Coast tour
major review coverage
promotion at BEA and ALA
featured at Winter Institute
prepublication buzz campaign with giveaways on Shelf Awareness, PW, Goodreads, Amazon Vine, and Earlyword IndieBound bookseller outreach campaign
reading group guide available online at groveatlantic.com

Also Available:
Double Happiness (978-0-8021-7074-3 • $14 • USOxE)
Wavemaker II (978-0-8021-3982-5 • $12 • USCO)

$25.00 (Canada: $27.50)
6 x 9, 320 pp.
Fiction (FIC019000)
978-0-8021-2249-0
U.S. and Canadian rights:
Atlantic Monthly Press

All other rights: Melanie Jackson Agency
(New York, tel.: 212-873-3373)
Carton quantity: 28
Export: USCOxE
Residence: Brooklyn, New York
Excerpt

I’m Clyde Boll’s daughter! she’d shout when tiny and he’d find her a silver dollar. Then she was nineteen years old and he was giving her a wedding gift. He’d just won Gooseneck Cove, and on this day they were taking a closer look.

Her father, stiff-legged even then, shoved aside the golden rod grown thick in the trace of a gravel drive. She lifted her skirt high so she wouldn’t spoil her sundress. They sidestepped down and stood in an open patch of long wet grass. Blue spruce and birches made a wide open circle, like the property was an amphitheater set to watch the drama of the river. The house was rotted up to the caved-in roof. Crows screeched from the trees at their intrusion and a water rat slid out through a broken window into a break in the cattails. Jean screamed and her father pulled her close to his chest. Don’t be daft, Jeanie. It’s a mouse.

A stench like something dead and surely rotting canceled the wet soft piney air. But she could still feel it on her skin, and she turned to see what the blue needles did, shivering, reflected in the water. What she’d make of all this. What a talent she had. Everyone said so. Then they climbed back up the ridge, Jean stepping like a deer, on the lookout for garter snakes.

PRAISE FOR MARY-BETH HUGHES

“A quietly gorgeous writer.”—New York Times Book Review

“Beautiful new voice in fiction.”—Time Out New York

PRAISE FOR THE LOVED ONES

“A book about leave-taking is inevitably a book about returning. In Mary-Beth Hughes’ new novel, departures of all kinds—by air, by ocean, by illness, by alienation, by death—lead the characters to circle one another as though in an entranced dance, looking for a safe place of arrival, hoping, perhaps, that their losses would feel less unbearable there. Hughes is a master of understatement, and deftly captures the subtle undercurrent of family life and the danger from the ever-changing world in the 1970s.”—Yiyun Li, author of Kinder Than Solitude

“In Mary-Beth Hughes’s electric novel The Loved Ones sexual currents surge as a bruised but glamorous couple strive to go on ‘making life gorgeous’ after the death of their young son. Underhanded transactions and self-serving characters threaten these ambitions, and the privileged life in New York and London, late sixties, is not without its costs. Hughes writes with stunning economy: fully realized characters are made with a stroke in this most seductive, irresistible fiction.”—Christine Schutt, author of Prosperous Friends
From a critically acclaimed historian, the lively story of the American pilots who defied neutrality and flew for France before the United States entered World War I

First to Fly

The Story of the Lafayette Escadrille, the American Heroes Who Flew for France in World War I

Charles Bracelen Flood

MARKETING

Salon named Flood’s Grant and Sherman: The Friendship That Won the Civil War one of the Top 12 Civil War Books Ever Written

Published in advance of the centenary of the Lafayette Escadrille’s formation

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss

targeted outreach to military press online promotion (charlesbracelenflood.com)

If the Wright brothers’ 1903 flights in Kitty Hawk marked the birth of aviation, World War I can be called its violent adolescence—a brief but bloody era that completely changed the way planes were designed, fabricated, and flown. The war forged an industry that would redefine transportation and warfare for future generations. In First to Fly, lauded historian Charles Bracelen Flood tells the story of the men who were at the forefront of that revolution: the daredevil Americans of the Lafayette Escadrille, who flew in French planes, wore French uniforms, and showed the world an American brand of heroism before the United States entered the Great War.

As citizens of a neutral nation from 1914 to early 1917, Americans were prohibited from serving in a foreign army, but many brave young souls soon made their way into European battle zones: as ambulance drivers, nurses, and, more dangerously, as soldiers in the French Foreign Legion. It was partly from the ranks of the latter group, and with the sponsorship of an expat American surgeon and millionaire William K. Vanderbilt, that the Lafayette Escadrille was formed in 1916 as the first and only all-American squadron in the French Air Service. Flying rudimentary planes, with one-in-three odds of being killed, these fearless young men gathered reconnaissance and shot down enemy aircraft, participated in the Battle of Verdun, and faced off with the Red Baron, Manfred von Richthofen, dueling across the war-torn skies like modern knights on horseback.

Drawing on rarely seen primary sources, Flood chronicles the startling success of that intrepid band, and gives a compelling look at the rise of aviation and a new era of warfare.
As the air war began, a stranded pilot would send a message back to his airfield saying where he was, and asking that the squadron send a staff car and a couple of mechanics to repair his plane so that he could fly it back. Often this required a stay of two or three days, and the pilot would return with a big smile and a report of splendid hospitality at the home of the Baron This or the Countess That.

Pilot Ned Parsons found himself in one such emergency when his electrical system “just cut out for good and all.” He glided down into “the park of a chateau,” overshot the flat area, and found himself “hanging head down about seven or eight feet off the ground, and all my weight was on my safety belt.” A peasant came around and asked in French if he could help. But Parsons ended up dropping “squarely on the back of my neck. . . . I awoke with my head in the lap of a charming and very beautiful English girl, whose husband, a French officer at the front, owned the chateau. I was there for several days till the wrecking crew came. Then they had two wrecks to take care of. I was the other.”

Excerpt

CHARLES BRACELEN FLOOD (1929–2014) wrote fifteen books, including Lee: The Last Years and Grant and Sherman: The Friendship That Won the Civil War, which Salon named one of the Top 12 Civil War Books Ever Written, and the New York Times bestselling novel Love Is a Bridge. He graduated from Harvard and was a past president of the PEN American Center.

---

PRAISE FOR FIRST TO FLY

“Charles Bracelen Flood’s book on the most legendary outfit of World War I is utterly absorbing, full of great anecdotes and harrowing dogfights. A compelling tribute to the young American men who fought in those flimsy contraptions that were the first warplanes, as well as the women who supported them behind the lines.”—Kevin Baker, author of The Big Crowd

“Rare is the book that combines authentic history with the vivid characterizations of the finest novels. Add to that achievement the gripping story of the war in the air in World War I and you have First to Fly, the most unforgettable drama that novelist and historian Charles Bracelen Flood has created in his long and distinguished career.”—Thomas Fleming, author of Over There, past president of the Society of American Historians and the PEN American Center

“Fusing his talents for narrative and characterization with a scholar’s passion for research, Charles Bracelen Flood has seamlessly woven an epic story of the American airmen who served in the ‘Great War.’ The reader is rewarded by an achievement of literary excellence that enlightens as it entertains.”—Sidney Offit, novelist, critic, memoirist, and curator emeritus of the George Polk Awards for special achievement in journalism

“This riveting look back at a catastrophe that changed our world tells the tale of a fascinating group of young men at war. With his well-turned prose, Charles Flood recreates a time that was dreadful yet also contained an innocence foreign to us today. First to Fly deserves a wide reading audience.”—John Buchanan, author of The Road to Guilford Courthouse: The American Revolution in the Carolinas

“Charlie Flood gives us a vivid account of the Lafayette Escadrille, young American pilots who took to the air against Germany nearly a year before the United States entered World War I. Some were idealists; some adventurers; all were present at the beginnings of America’s combat airpower. All of Flood’s formidable writing skills are on display here, as he tells this important story.”—General Merrill A. McPeak, USAF (Ret.), former chief of staff, U.S. Air Force
The stunning thirteenth Tom Thorne novel, from a writer called “one of the most consistently entertaining, insightful crime writers working today” by Gillian Flynn

Time of Death

A Tom Thorne Novel

Mark Billingham

MARKETING

Mark Billingham’s books have sold over 4 million copies worldwide

Six Tom Thorne novels are now available from Grove Atlantic for backlist promotions

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss

targeted outreach to mystery/thriller press

library marketing including ALA

Promotions at ThrillerFest

backlist eBook promotions

online promotion (markbillingham.com)

Twitter @MarkBillingham

MARK BILLINGHAM has twice won the Theakston’s Old Peculier Award for Best Crime Novel and also won the Sherlock Award for the best detective created by a British writer. His books have been translated into twenty-five languages and have sold over four million copies. He lives in London.

Time of Death is the astonishing thirteenth Tom Thorne novel from British crime master Mark Billingham, a gripping story of kidnapping, the tabloid press, and a frightening case of mistaken identity. Tom Thorne is on holiday with his girlfriend DS Helen Weeks, when two girls are abducted in Helen’s hometown of Polesford, Warwickshire. When a body is discovered and a man is arrested, Helen recognizes the suspect’s wife as an old school friend and returns home for the first time in twenty-five years to lend her support. As Helen faces up to a past she has tried desperately to forget and a media storm engulfs the town, Thorne becomes convinced that, despite overwhelming evidence of his guilt, the police have got the wrong man. There is still an extremely clever killer on the loose and a missing girl who Thorne believes might still be alive.

“Morse, Rebus, and now Thorne. The next superstar detective is already with us—don’t miss him.” —Lee Child

“Billingham is a world-class crime writer and Tom Thorne is a wonderful creation. Rush to read these books.” —Karin Slaughter

“With each of his books, Mark Billingham gets better and better. These are stories and characters you don’t want to leave.” —Michael Connelly

“Billingham is one of the best crime novelists working today.” —Laura Lippman

Also Available:

From the Dead
(978-0-8021-2291-9 • $16 • USOxE)

Sleepyhead
(978-0-8021-2150-9 • $15 • USOxE)

The Dying Hours
(978-0-8021-2268-1 • $15 • USOxE)

Scaredy Cat
(978-0-8021-2149-3 • $15 • USOxE)

© CHARLIE HOPKINSON

All other rights: Lutyens & Rubenstein
(London, tel.: 020-7792-4855)
Carton quantity: 24
Export: USOxE
Residence: London, United Kingdom
Excerpt

On the screen, a young reporter in a smart coat and thick scarf talked directly to camera. She spoke, suitably grim-faced yet evidently excited at breaking the news about this latest “significant development.” Behind her, almost certainly gathered together by the film crew for effect, a small group of locals jostled for position in a small market square that Helen Weeks knew well.

This was the town in which she had grown up.

The reporter continued, talking over the same video package that had run the night before: a ragged line of officers in high-vis jackets moving slowly across a dark field; a distraught looking couple being comforted by relatives; a different but equally distressed couple being bundled through a scrum of journalists brandishing cameras and microphones. The reporter said that, according to sources close to the investigation, a local man in his thirties had been identified as the suspect currently in custody. She gave the man’s name. She said it again, nice and slowly. “Police,” she said, “have refused to confirm or deny that Stephen Bates is the man they are holding.”

“Ouch,” Thorne said. “Right now there’s a Senior Investigating Officer ripping some gobshite a new arsehole.”

“Leak could have come from anywhere,” Helen said.

“Not good though. Is it?”

“Not a lot anyone can do, not there. Somebody knows somebody who saw him taken to the station, whatever.” Her eyes had not left the screen. “It’s not an easy place to keep secrets.”

PA R A G R A P H

On the screen, a young reporter in a smart coat and thick scarf talked directly to camera. She spoke, suitably grim-faced yet evidently excited at breaking the news about this latest “significant development.” Behind her, almost certainly gathered together by the film crew for effect, a small group of locals jostled for position in a small market square that Helen Weeks knew well.

This was the town in which she had grown up.

The reporter continued, talking over the same video package that had run the night before: a ragged line of officers in high-vis jackets moving slowly across a dark field; a distraught looking couple being comforted by relatives; a different but equally distressed couple being bundled through a scrum of journalists brandishing cameras and microphones. The reporter said that, according to sources close to the investigation, a local man in his thirties had been identified as the suspect currently in custody. She gave the man’s name. She said it again, nice and slowly. “Police,” she said, “have refused to confirm or deny that Stephen Bates is the man they are holding.”

“Ouch,” Thorne said. “Right now there’s a Senior Investigating Officer ripping some gobshite a new arsehole.”

“Leak could have come from anywhere,” Helen said.

“Not good though. Is it?”

“Not a lot anyone can do, not there. Somebody knows somebody who saw him taken to the station, whatever.” Her eyes had not left the screen. “It’s not an easy place to keep secrets.”

PA R A G R A P H

On the screen, a young reporter in a smart coat and thick scarf talked directly to camera. She spoke, suitably grim-faced yet evidently excited at breaking the news about this latest “significant development.” Behind her, almost certainly gathered together by the film crew for effect, a small group of locals jostled for position in a small market square that Helen Weeks knew well.

This was the town in which she had grown up.

The reporter continued, talking over the same video package that had run the night before: a ragged line of officers in high-vis jackets moving slowly across a dark field; a distraught looking couple being comforted by relatives; a different but equally distressed couple being bundled through a scrum of journalists brandishing cameras and microphones. The reporter said that, according to sources close to the investigation, a local man in his thirties had been identified as the suspect currently in custody. She gave the man’s name. She said it again, nice and slowly. “Police,” she said, “have refused to confirm or deny that Stephen Bates is the man they are holding.”

“Ouch,” Thorne said. “Right now there’s a Senior Investigating Officer ripping some gobshite a new arsehole.”

“Leak could have come from anywhere,” Helen said.

“Not good though. Is it?”

“Not a lot anyone can do, not there. Somebody knows somebody who saw him taken to the station, whatever.” Her eyes had not left the screen. “It’s not an easy place to keep secrets.”

P R A I S E  F O R  M A R K  B I L L I N G H A M

“Billingham excels in all regards. Tom Thorne’s adventures bear comparison with those of Connelly’s Harry Bosch, Ian Rankin’s John Rebus, and James Lee Burke’s Dave Robicheaux.”—Patrick Anderson, Washington Post, on From the Dead

“The joy here comes from watching Thorne work under the radar while on the hunt for a killer who proves to be extremely clever and really, really mean.”

—Marilyn Stasio, New York Times Book Review, on The Dying Hours

“Brilliantly conceived and superbly plotted, with complex characters, deft twists, and an ending that’s both shocking and oppressive. A must-read.”

—Booklist (starred review), on Sleepyhead

“Like the best of British and American crime writing rolled up together and delivered with the kind of punch you don’t see coming.”—Lee Child, on Scaredy Cat

A V A I L A B L E  I N  P A P E R B A C K  I N  J U N E

“I love a good twist-up. The Bones Beneath is one of those . . . moving readers just a bit closer to the edge of their seats with each passing page. . . . one of Billingham’s best to date, and certainly one of his most suspenseful.”—Bookreporter

The Bones Beneath
A Tom Thorne Novel
Mark Billingham

“The bleak setting also evokes the proper air of mystery and menace . . . Thrillers usually stand or fall on the strength of their villains, and Nicklin can certainly make your skin crawl with his cruel mind games.” —New York Times Book Review

The Bones Beneath, the twelfth novel in the Tom Thorne series, shows Thorne facing perhaps the most dangerous serial killer he has ever put away, Stuart Nicklin. When Nicklin announces that he wishes to reveal the whereabouts of one of his earliest victims, it becomes clear that Thorne’s life is about to become seriously unpleasant. Thorne is forced to accompany Nicklin to a remote island off the Welsh coast, a place shrouded in myth and legend and said to be the resting place of 20,000 saints. As Thorne and his team search for more recent bones, it becomes clear that Nicklin’s motives are far from altruistic. From an author deemed “one of the most consistently entertaining, insightful crime writers working today” by Gillian Flynn, The Bones Beneath throws us into the twisted scheme of a dangerous and manipulative psychopath, which will leave Tom Thorne with the most terrible choice he has ever had to make.

“A slow-building gothic tale of manipulation and evil that’s heavy on atmosphere . . . a simmering suspense, with each seemingly quiet little scene building to something creepy and terrible.”

—Criminal Element

Also available as a HighBridge audiobook

$14.00
5½ x 8¼, 384 pp.
Thriller (FIC031000)
978-0-8021-2367-1
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9248-6
U.S. rights: Grove Press
All other rights: Lutyens & Rubenstein (London, tel.:020-7792-4855)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USOx
Previous ISBN: 978-0-8021-2248-3
Residence: London, United Kingdom
From the man behind the infamous @GSElevator Twitter account, true stories from the wild world of international finance

Straight to Hell

True Tales of Deviance, Debauchery, and Billion-Dollar Deals

John LeFevre

“Some chick asked me what I would do with ten million bucks. I told her I’d wonder where the rest of my money went.” —@GSElevator

Over the past three years, the notorious @GSElevator Twitter feed has offered a hilarious, shamelessly voyeuristic look into the real world of international finance. Hundreds of thousands followed the account, Goldman Sachs launched an internal investigation, and when the true identity of the man behind it all was revealed, it created a national media sensation—but that’s only part of the story.

Where @GSElevator captured the essence of the banking elite with curated jokes and submissions overheard by readers, Straight to Hell adds John LeFevre’s own story—an unapologetic and darkly funny account of a career as a globe-conquering investment banker spanning New York, London, and Hong Kong. Straight to Hell pulls back the curtain on a world that is both hated and envied, taking readers from the trading floors and roadshows to private planes and after-hours overindulgence. Full of shocking lawlessness, boyish antics, and win-at-all-costs schemes, this is the definitive take on the deviant, dysfunctional, and absolutely excessive world of finance.
Princelings, or as we affectionately call them, Dumplings, are the children of regional tycoons, captains of industry, and Chinese party officials. We all understand and expect that Chelsea Clinton can walk into a job at McKinsey or that Carl Icahn can call Goldman Sachs (which he did) and let them know that his son will be starting tomorrow. However, in Asia, it has increasingly become the rule. All banks hire a disproportionate number of Princelings, and not just the ones who graduated from Stanford or Princeton, with the implicit expectation that it comes with benefits through their influential families.

In some cases, these kids didn’t even want to be there; all their families wanted was to be able to say that their kid worked “as an investment banker” for a prestigious firm for a few years before joining the family business or going to business school. It didn’t matter what the job was. In one instance, the structured credit trading desk hired the son of a billionaire Hong Kong property tycoon as the desk assistant. The kid was remarkably down to earth, but it was hilarious watching people tiptoe around him ever so politely, prefacing mundane requests with, “Hey, if it’s not too much trouble, can you chase the back office on this trade confirmation?” as opposed to the typical “Hey fuckstick. Why the fuck isn’t our P&L reconciling.”

At the end of the day, we’d all get in the same long taxi line to go home, and these kids would discreetly slink away to the chauffeured cars waiting for them.

Excerpt

From “Princelings and Dumplings”

---

PRAISE FOR JOHN LeFEVRE AND @GSELEVATOR

“Darkly funny.”—New York Times

“Always amusing.”—USA Today

“Popular.”—Wall Street Journal

“We can’t get enough.”—Politico

“Lefevre built an impressive reputation at Citigroup, earning the respect of his colleagues and peers for his ballsy pricing calls and smooth salesmanship.”—Reuters

“Hilarious.”—Business Insider

---

FROM THE @GSELEVATOR TWITTER FEED

A guy came up to me at the gym and asked me what event I was training so hard for. Life, motherfucker.

If you can be good at one thing, be good at lying. . . . Because if you’re good at lying, you’re good at everything.

“Just be yourself” is good advice to probably 5% of people.

I start every cell conversation with “My phone’s about to die” so people don’t waste my time.

China is our landlord and we know he’s beating his wife but we’re two months behind on rent so we let it slide.

Starbucks needs a separate line for people who have their shit together.
In the new novel in Mike Lawson’s critically acclaimed series, Joe DeMarco is dispatched to aid a young activist in North Dakota, and confronts an oil tycoon and a pair of fixers whose tactics are all-too-familiar.

House Rivals

A Joe DeMarco Thriller

Mike Lawson

MARKETING

House Blood (2013), House Divided (2012), House Secrets (2010), and The Inside Ring were finalists for the Barry Award for Best Thriller.

House Rules was a #1 Kindle bestseller.

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss.

targeted outreach to mystery & thriller press.

library marketing including ALA.

backlist eBook promotions.

online promotion (mikelawsonbooks.com)

As a fixer for influential congressman John Mahoney in Washington, D.C., Joe DeMarco has found himself in plenty of unexpected and dangerous situations. In House Rivals, the tenth book in Mike Lawson’s award-winning series, DeMarco is taken further out of his element than ever before, sent to North Dakota to protect a passionate but naive twenty-two-year-old blogger who has put herself in harm’s way.

The young woman is Sarah Johnson, whose grandfather saved Mahoney’s life in Vietnam. For the past two years, Sarah has been on a relentless crusade against a billionaire oil tycoon who has profited handsomely from the natural gas boom in the Dakotas—and who she believes has been bribing small-time politicians and judges to keep things in his favor. Though she has no hard evidence against the man, Sarah has been assaulted and received death threats for her meddling. DeMarco, given his years of experience bending the rules in D.C., suspects that a middleman like himself is pulling strings for the tycoon. But as DeMarco tries to identify his adversaries, the situation turns unexpectedly violent, and DeMarco finds himself in a battle of wits against two ruthless problem solvers who will stop at nothing to win.

Smartly written with Lawson’s trademark smooth prose and subtle humor, House Rivals is an enthralling, timely thriller that readers won’t want to miss.
Excerpt
Sarah Johnson was a hell of a researcher. But she didn’t seem to be able to grasp the fact that just because a politician benefitted at the same time Curtis benefitted that that wasn’t prima facie evidence of bribery. Rather than argue with her, he said, “Okay, go back over your blog and your notes and think about who might give us a lead on the person Curtis is using to fix things around here.”

“I will,” she said and stood up. “But then what? What do I do when I’ve got some names?”

“Then we go lean on these people and try to convince them to talk to you. I’m not much of a researcher but I’m pretty good at leaning on folks.”

“You’ll go with me? Seriously?”

“Yeah. For a while. I mean, I have a job in D.C. I need to get back to, but I’ll give this a few more days.”

Sarah marched out of the restaurant like a woman on a mission from God.

MIKE LAWSON is a former senior civilian executive for the U.S. Navy. He is the author of nine previous novels starring Joe DeMarco.

PRAISE FOR MIKE LAWSON

“Mike Lawson has a deservedly strong reputation for his robust, bemused tales of D.C. intrigue.” —Seattle Times

“Lawson has a talent for creating characters we care about, and his writing is so smooth, so seamless, that you don’t realize how far you’ve been submerged in DeMarco’s world until you find yourself wanting to get involved in his life.” —Seattle Mystery Bookshop

“Lawson writes with grit, humor and precision.” —Mark Greaney, New York Times bestselling author of Ballistic

“A great author!” —Lisa Gardner, New York Times bestselling author of Live to Tell

AVAILABLE IN PAPERBACK IN JULY

“Mike Lawson’s smart and resourceful fixer-to-the-politicos Joe DeMarco makes a welcome return in House Reckoning. It fills in some fascinating backstory.” —Seattle Times

House Reckoning
A Joe DeMarco Thriller
Mike Lawson

“Enjoyable. . . . A well-balanced plot reveals the intriguing backstory of the likable DeMarco.” —Publishers Weekly

When Joe DeMarco was a boy, he always knew his father, Gino, had a shadowy job, working for a violent mafioso in New York. But he didn’t know that his father had been a hit man until he was murdered. The crime was never solved, but twenty years later, one of Gino’s former mob associates wants to get something off his chest before retiring to his grave: the truth about Gino DeMarco’s killer. Only the alleged killer was not just another hood, but a supposedly upstanding citizen who is now on the brink of taking a job in Washington, D.C., that would leave him virtually untouchable. If DeMarco has any hope of finding out the truth and avenging his father’s death, he will have to act quickly. But is revenge over a two-decades-old tragedy worth his job, and maybe even his life? House Reckoning tells DeMarco’s personal story in full for the first time, from his upbringing in Queens to his complicated relationship with his father. Full of great characters and featuring a twisty plot that builds to a shocking conclusion, it is a must-read for fans and an excellent introduction to this fantastic series.

“A compelling story of vengeance. Lawson is a gifted master.” —Rick Mofina, bestselling author of Whirlwind

“A fine thriller with a tense, twisting plot and a sociopathic villain worthy of a seat in the House.” —Booklist

“Fast, assured, and as refreshingly unsentimental as Joe himself.” —Kirkus Reviews

also available as a Blackstone audiobook
From New York Times bestselling author Alice LaPlante, a mesmerizing novel about faith, grief, and obsession as a complicated, passionate young woman falls in with a doomsday cult.

Coming of Age at the End of Days

Alice LaPlante

MARKETING

A Circle of Wives was an Indie Next Pick, a LibraryReads Selection, and an Amazon and a Daily Candy Best Book of the Month

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss

West Coast tour (including Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle)

major review coverage

prepublication buzz campaign with giveaways on Shelf Awareness, PW, Goodreads, and Amazon Vine

promotion at BEA and ALA

backlist eBook promotions

reading group outreach/author available for book club chats

reading group guide available online at groveatlantic.com online promotion (alicelaplante.com)

Also Available:

A Circle of Wives (978-0-8021-2292-6 • $15 • USO)

Turn of Mind (978-0-8021-4590-1 • $15 • USO)

Alice LaPlante’s acclaimed psychological thrillers are distinguished by their stunning synthesis of family drama and engrossing suspense. Her new novel, Coming of Age at the End of Days, is an incisive foray deeper into the creases of family life—and the light-and-dark battle of faith—as LaPlante delves into the barbed psyche of a teenager whose misguided convictions bear irrevocable consequences.

Never one to conform, Anna always had trouble fitting in. Earnest and willful, as a young girl she quickly learned how to hide her quirks from her parents and friends. But when, at sixteen, a sudden melancholia takes hold of her life, she loses her sense of self and purpose. Then the Goldschmidts move in next door. They’re active members of a religious cult, and Anna is awestruck by both their son, Lars, and their fervent violent prophecies for the Tribulation at the End of Days. Within months, everything in Anna’s life—her family, her home, her very identity—will undergo profound changes. But when her newfound beliefs threaten to push her over the edge, she must find the strength to come back to center with the help of unlikely friends: Jim, a childhood crush wading through a quarter-life crisis in his parents’ basement, and Clara, her compassionate chemistry teacher desperate for adventure.

An intimate story of destruction and renewal, LaPlante delivers a haunting exploration of family legacies, devotion, and tangled relationships. She once again brilliantly parses an altered mind on the brink and considers the often perilous, always challenging journey to become the people we want to be at the end of our days.
Excerpt

Anna's mother assigns her tasks. “You get the tomatoes and the potatoes, I'll get the apples and lettuce.” She gives Anna $20, then hesitates, takes it out of Anna's limp hand, and puts it in Anna's front pocket for safety. She gives Anna a push and Anna wills her feet to move. She enters a stall piled high with potatoes. Small, large, oblong, misshapen, purple, grey, white. Other shoppers are picking up specimens, marveling at their color and quality and unusual shapes but Anna simply takes a plastic bag and dully begins filling it. Then it happens. That cruelest of all things. A flash of normality. This can occur. A glimpse of life as other people are experiencing it. For an instant the scene changes from sepia to full color, Anna is assaulted by the bright hues, the earthy smells, she feels the buzzing energy of the crowd.

Anna puts her hands on a pile of orange tinted potatoes, feels their coolness, their strange bumps and rough hollows. She holds one up to her cheek, sniffs it. And for a minute Anna thinks sheer willpower can do it, can vanquish the melancholia. A simple mindset adjustment, a quick wrenching of perspective, and she could be out of misery and into the light. It is all her fault. She has simply been looking at things the wrong way round. The world really isn’t so sad, so dead. It has all been a terrible mistake. Hers. Then, just as suddenly, the vision passes. Back to sepia, back to pain, even more pain after such a moment of grace.

ALICE LaPLANTE is an award-winning and bestselling author of numerous books, including A Circle of Wives and the New York Times bestseller Turn of Mind, which was the winner of the Wellcome Trust’s Book Prize and a B&N Discover Award finalist. She teaches creative writing at Stanford University and in the MFA program at San Francisco State University.

PRAISE FOR A CIRCLE OF WIVES

“A suspenseful, thrilling read but also one that explores the complications of human relationships with grace and understanding.”—Interview

“Sharply drawn and carefully shaded characters.”—Entertainment Weekly

“A wild ride of love, loss, marriage and murder, with a finale that’s provocative, thrilling and grand. It all shows that while some deaths are a mystery, so, too, are some loves.”—San Francisco Chronicle

“A smart, intricate tale about murder and the elusive mysteries of marriage.”—People

PRAISE FOR TURN OF MIND

New York Times bestseller

“A stunning act of imagination.”—Chicago Tribune

“An artful, ambitious, and arresting attempt to capture the thoughts and feelings, by turn confused, conspiratorial, canny, and clear, of a person in the throes of mental illness.”—San Francisco Chronicle

“A portrait of an unstable mind, an expansive, expertly wrought imagining of memory’s failures and potential . . . Haunting and original.”—New York Times Book Review

“Full of suspense, rueful humor, and scalpel-sharp insights into the intricacies of love and friendship—as well as the human spirit.”—More
A riveting thriller from award-winning writer Belinda Bauer centered on a medical student who becomes increasingly convinced that the cadaver he’s dissecting did not die of natural causes.

Rubbernecker

Belinda Bauer

MARKETING

Rubbernecker won the 2014 Theakstons Old Peculier Crime Novel of the Year Award and was included in the Guardian’s list of the best crime and thrillers of the year.

Belinda Bauer won the 2010 Crime Writers’ Association’s Gold Dagger Award for Crime Novel of the Year for her first novel, Blacklands, and was shortlisted for the 2012 CWA Dagger in the Library Award for outstanding body of work.

online promotion at belindabauer.co.uk

Twitter @BelindaBauer

“Breathtaking. I read this and wished I’d written it.”—Val McDermid

Belinda Bauer is a phenomenal voice in British crime fiction whose work has won the CWA’s Gold Dagger Award for Crime Novel of the Year and garnered rave reviews on both sides of the Atlantic. Winner of the 2014 Theakstons Old Peculier Crime Novel of the Year Award, Rubbernecker is a gripping thriller about a medical student who begins to suspect that something strange is going on in his cadaver lab.

“The dead can’t speak to us,” Professor Madoc had said. But that was a lie. The body Patrick Fort is examining in anatomy class is trying to tell him all kinds of things. But no one hears what he does, and no one understand when he tries to tell them.

Life is already strange enough for Patrick—being a medical student with Asperger’s syndrome doesn’t come without its challenges. And that’s before he is faced with solving a possible murder, especially when no one believes a crime has even taken place. Now he must stay out of danger long enough to unravel the mystery. But as Patrick learns one truth from a dead man, he discovers there have been many other lies closer to home.

A can’t-put-it-down page-turner from one of the finest voices in UK crime, Rubbernecker puts Belinda Bauer firmly on the map of world-class crime writers.

“An intelligent, disturbing read.”—The Guardian (UK)
Excerpt

Patrick rolled on to his back, his breath suddenly shallow and his stomach fluttering with tension. He held his twisted thumbs up to the dark ceiling and thought again of the delicate blue veins in the backs of Lexi’s hands. Her skin was so fine and pale—nothing like Cadaver Number 19’s tough orange dermis. Making an H-incision in her throat would be completely different. There would be no scrape of old stubble against his knuckles, no Adam’s apple to teeter up and down again, no smell of lilies and shit. Only the pliable tracheal rings, dipping gently into the jugular notch at the base of her smooth neck. Nothing about it would be the same as the cadaver’s, even if her veins and kidneys did give away the family connection.

“Are you awake?” he said clearly.

Her forehead creased. “What do you want?”

“Are you allergic to nuts?”

“Yes. If I have one I could die.”

“Was your father?”

“Yes.”

“OK,” said Patrick. He opened his wardrobe and put on his T-shirt and hoodie.

Lexi sat up, hair awry, and hugged her knees through the red blanket. “Why? What’s going on?”

He didn’t tell her because he didn’t hear her. He was overwhelmed by a looped image of his own blue finger dipping into Number 19’s puckered flesh, like Doubting Thomas peering into the side of Christ, while a question buzzed through his being.

If Number 19 was being fed through a tube, what was he doing with a peanut—of all things—in his throat?

BELINDA BAUER grew up in England and South Africa. She has worked as a journalist and screenwriter, and her script The Locker Room earned her the Carl Foreman/Bafta Award for Young British Screenwriters. She is the author of five award-winning novels that have been translated into twenty-one languages. She lives in Wales.

PRAISE FOR RUBBERNECKER

“Exciting . . . Reads like a collaboration between Mark Haddon (The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time) and Barbara Vine.” —Sunday Telegraph (UK)

“Bauer takes astonishing risks but—like a brilliant ski-jumper—arcs down to the perfect landing.” —Independent (UK)

“Surprise, of course, is the most potent aspect of suspense. And Belinda Bauer knows exactly how to manipulate that element, right until the very end.” —Daily Mail (UK)

“Riveting and thought-provoking . . . A sensitive work that breaches the crime novel’s usual formulae.” —Times (UK) (Books of the Year)

“Echoes . . . Mark Haddon’s The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time . . . and with more twists and coils than a hangman’s noose, it deserves to do equally well.” —Sunday Express (UK)

PRAISE FOR BELINDA BAUER

“Belinda Bauer’s thrillers are always compelling, always original, always brilliant. I will rush to read anything she writes.” —Mark Billingham

“Astonishing . . . A terrifying knockout.” —Los Angeles Times, on Blacklands

“Bleak, thought-provoking, and utterly original.” —Mo Hayder, on Blacklands

“One of England’s bright new talents . . . Bauer sets just the right tone.” —Pittsburgh Tribune-Review, on Blacklands
THE MYSTERIOUS PRESS
In the thrilling third novel in the series, Oakland attorney Leo Maxwell returns to the dark place where the Maxwell family saga began.

Fox Is Framed

A Leo Maxwell Mystery

Lachlan Smith

MARKETING

Bear Is Broken, a finalist for the Shamus Award for Best First PI Novel and the Killer Nashville Silver Falchion Award for Best First Novel, was named a Kirkus Reviews Best Mystery/Thriller of the Year and a Deadly Pleasures Best First Novel of the Year.

eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss

Also Available:

- Lion Plays Rough (978-0-8021-2299-5 • $14 • USCO)
- Bear Is Broken (978-0-8021-2226-1 • $15 • USCO)

PRAISE FOR LACHLAN SMITH

“Lachlan Smith has done the impossible—written a riveting debut novel that stands with the best legal thrillers on my bookshelf.”

—Linda Fairstein, bestselling author of Night Watch, on Bear Is Broken

“Smith has created a wonderfully readable pair of brothers in Teddy and Leo Maxwell. . . . Lion Plays Rough is as good as Bear Is Broken, which is high praise indeed.”

—Huntington News, on Lion Plays Rough
In this new literary thriller from Joyce Carol Oates, when a venerated mystery writer is accused of plagiarism by a strange woman from his small New Jersey town, his life—and sanity—begins to unravel.

Jack of Spades

* A Tale of Suspense

Joyce Carol Oates

MARKETING

Oates was the recipient of the 2014 Barnes & Noble Writers for Writers Award from Poets & Writers
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss
major review coverage
backlist eBook promotions
Twitter @JoyceCarolOates

From one of the most highly regarded writers of our generation, Jack of Spades is an exquisite, psychologically complex thriller about the opposing forces within the mind of one ambitious writer and the line between genius and madness.

Andrew J. Rush has achieved the kind of critical and commercial success most authors only dream about: he has a top agent and publisher in New York, and his twenty-eight mystery novels have sold millions of copies around the world. He also has a loving wife and three grown children and is a well-known philanthropist in his small New Jersey town. But Rush is hiding a dark secret. Under the pseudonym “Jack of Spades,” he pens another string of novels—dark potboilers that are violent, lurid, even masochistic. These are novels that the refined, upstanding Andrew Rush wouldn’t be caught reading, let alone writing. But when one day his daughter comes across a Jack of Spades novel that he has carelessly left out, she begins to ask questions. Meanwhile, Rush receives a court summons in the mail explaining that a local woman has accused him of plagiarizing her own self-published fiction. Rush’s reputation, career, and family life all come under threat—and unbidden, in the back of his mind, the Jack of Spades starts thinking ever more evil thoughts.

© CHARLES GROSS

JOYCE CAROL OATES is the author of such national bestsellers as The Falls, Blonde, and We Were the Mulvaneys. Her other titles for The Mysterious Press include High Crime Area and The Corn Maiden and Other Nightmares, which won the 2011 Bram Stoker Award for Short Horror Fiction. She is also the recipient of the National Book Award for them and the 2010 President’s Medal for the Humanities.

Also Available:

- Evil Eye
  (978-0-8021-2288-9 • $14 • USCO)
- Daddy Love
  (978-0-8021-2224-7 • $16 • USCO)
- The Corn Maiden
  (978-0-8021-5508-5 • $15 • USCO)

$24.00 (Canada: $26.50)
5½ x 8¼, 208 pp.
Thriller (FIC031000)
978-0-8021-2394-7
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9103-8
World rights excluding France and Sweden: Mysterious Press

Rights sold: Head of Zeus (UK)
All other rights: John Hawkins & Associates (New York, tel.: 212-807-7040)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USCO
Residence: Princeton, New Jersey
Drenched in clammy atmosphere, Oates’s work explores the heads of both ordinary people and those who are at least a little damaged.

—Seattle Times

High Crime Area

Tales of Darkness and Dread

Joyce Carol Oates

“Some people read poetry at bedtime. Others prefer seed catalogs. May I suggest Joyce Carol Oates’s new story collection, High Crime Area? These ‘tales of darkness and dread’ won’t put you to sleep, but they’ll give you more interesting nightmares.”

—New York Times Book Review

Joyce Carol Oates is an unparalleled investigator of human personality. In these eight stories, she deftly tests the bonds between damaged individuals—brother and sister, teacher and student, two lonesome strangers on a subway—in the fearless prose for which she’s become so celebrated. In the title story, a white aspiring professor in Detroit tries to shake a black male shadow during the city’s 1967 race riots. In “The Rescuer,” a promising graduate student detours to inner-city Trenton, New Jersey, to save her brother from a downward spiral, but finds herself entranced by his dangerous new world. Meanwhile, a young woman of a much different breed prowls the New York City subways in search of her perfect man in “Lorelei.” In these biting and beautiful pieces, Oates confronts the demons within us. In the end, sometimes it’s the human who wins, and sometimes it’s the demon.

“Oates carries forward the great American dark-tales tradition with spellbinding craft, a cutting female eye, and a keen sense of how the diabolical infiltrates everyday existence.”

—Booklist

PRAISE FOR JOYCE CAROL OATES

“After all these years, Joyce Carol Oates can still give me the creeps. Oates is a mind reader who writes psychological horror stories about seriously disturbed minds.”

—New York Times Book Review, on Daddy Love

“Wrenching, tightly written and focused . . . a grim examination of how humans cope with unspeakable physical and psychological pain. [Oates] illuminates the darkest corners and shows us the startled, troubled creatures hiding there.”

—Cleveland Plain-Dealer, on Daddy Love

“Oates is not only a prolific writer but a fine one—entertaining, skillful, always writing with one finger on the cultural pulse, often brilliantly so.”

—Boston Globe, on The Corn Maiden and Other Nightmares

“While the shadows of Poe and Hitchcock loom over these tales, it’s clear that Oates herself is a master at creeping out her readers.”—Kirkus Reviews, on The Corn Maiden and Other Nightmares

“Exquisitely suspenseful. . . . The relationships between the damaged, sometimes monstrous individuals who people these pages will keep the reader riveted.”

—Publishers Weekly (starred review), on Evil Eye

$15.00 (Canada: $16.50)
5½ x 8¼, 224 pp.
Short Stories (FIC029000)
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9213-4
World rights excluding France and Sweden: Mysterious Press

Rights sold: Head of Zeus (UK)
All other rights: John Hawkins & Associates
(New York, tel.: 212-807-7040)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USCO

Available in paperback in June
In this historical thriller from an internationally bestselling author, a daring young British pilot is swept into the world of international intrigue surrounding the Treaty of Versailles when his diplomat father turns up dead.

The Ways of the World

* A James Maxted Thriller

Robert Goddard

From the Edgar Award-winning, internationally bestselling British writer Robert Goddard comes the first book in a captivating new trilogy of historical thrillers set at the tail end of World War I and featuring the devilishly charismatic James “Max” Maxted, a Royal Flying Corps veteran who has a hard time keeping himself out of trouble.

Four years of horrific battlefield fighting have finally ended, and in the spring of 1919, Paris is filled with delegates from around the world who are trying to hammer out the terms of peace. One such delegate is British diplomat Sir Henry Maxted, in charge of liaising with the Brazilians regarding seized ships. But before a deal is reached, Sir Henry turns up dead outside a Montparnasse apartment building, apparently having fallen from the roof. His sons Max and Ashley are sent to Paris to collect the body, and it quickly becomes clear that the theory the French police have put forward is flawed. But since the murder of a diplomat could be disastrous for the peace conference, no one is keen to ask questions—except Max.

What begins as an innocent inquiry into his father’s death soon leads Max into a dangerous world of secret allegiances, international espionage, and double-crossing at the highest levels of government. How far is he willing to go to discover the truth about the death of a father he barely knew? And how much will the authorities—and others—let him find out before threatening his own life?

“Robert Goddard is the master of complex, tricky thrillers that dazzle with surprises...Another stellar performance.” —Sydney Morning Herald
Max grasped the receiver. “Mother?”

“James?” No telephone line could drain from her voice the querulousness that always seemed to attach itself to her pronunciation of his name.

“Yes. I’m here.”

“I think you should come home at once.” By home she meant Gresscombe Place, the house in Surrey where Max had spent a sizeable portion of his childhood and youth without ever quite thinking of it as home. “There’s been . . . an accident.”

“What sort of accident?” Max felt the mildest tug of anxiety, but nothing more. Surviving the aerial war in France had inured him to most of the calamities of everyday existence. Whatever his mother might be about to say, it surely did not represent a turning point in his life.

But such moments come when fate decrees. And this was such a moment. “It’s your father, James,” said Lady Maxted. “He’s been killed, I’m afraid.”

PRAISE FOR ROBERT GODDARD

“Goddard travels steadily, cleverly, inexorably from light to darkness. It’s the storyteller as magician: we only see what he wants us to see, when he wants us to see it . . . [the book] had me utterly spellbound . . . cracking good entertainment.”—Washington Post, on Into the Blue

“A master of the sly double- and triple-cross. Goddard’s hairpin plot turns contrast nicely with his smooth and understated prose.”—Seattle Times, on Into the Blue

“Goddard is a master of the clever twist.”—Sunday Telegraph, on Dying to Tell

“Robert Goddard has, for decades, staked an irrefutable claim to the English generational mystery genre with brilliantly woven, complex plots anchored in place and spread over time.”—Times (London), on Fault Line

“Engrossing storytelling of a very high order.”—Observer (London), on Sea Change

“The plotting in this intelligent thriller is exceptionally good. Goddard’s greatest strength is his ability to operate like a literary conjurer: we know he will give us a twist or surprise in almost every chapter, but time and again he hits us with it from an unexpected direction.”—Spectator, on Name to a Face

“An absorbing read from a truly creative storyteller.”—Guardian, on Name to a Face

“A spellbinding storyteller.”—Sunday Independent, on Into the Blue

“When it comes to duplicity and intrigue, Goddard is second to none. He is a master of manipulation . . . a hypnotic, unputdownable thriller.”—Daily Mail, on Long Time Coming

“As always, Goddard delivers a thoughtful and fast-moving tale with well-drawn characters.”—Independent (Ireland), on Blood Count
Ireland’s master of poetic crime fiction, called “an Irish treasure” by Shelf Awareness, spins a new alcohol-fueled Jack Taylor plot, featuring a Rhodes scholar gone astray, a professor with a violent streak, and a young woman who almost makes Jack look tame.

Green Hell
A Jack Taylor Novel
Ken Bruen

MARKETING
Two Bruen novels have been made into feature films: London Boulevard (starring Colin Farrell) and Blitz (starring Jason Statham). The Jack Taylor series has been adapted for TV in Ireland, in a series starring Iain Glen (Resident Evil, Game of Thrones)
eGalleys available on NetGalley and Edelweiss
major review coverage targeted outreach to mystery and thriller press
promotion at BEA and ALA

Ken Bruen might be the best-kept literary secret in Ireland.”
—Independent (Ireland), on Purgatory

The award-winning crime writer Ken Bruen is as joyously unapologetic in his writing as he is wickedly poetic. In the new Jack Taylor novel Green Hell, Bruen’s dark angel of a protagonist has hit rock bottom: one of his best friends is dead, the other has stopped speaking to him; he has given up battling his addiction to alcohol and pills; and his firing from the Irish national police, the Garda, is ancient history. But Jack isn’t about to embark on a self-improvement plan. Instead, he has taken up a vigilante case against a respected professor of literature at the University of Galway who has a violent habit his friends in high places are only too happy to ignore. And when Jack rescues a preppy American student on a Rhodes Scholarship from a couple of kid thugs, he also unexpectedly gains a new sidekick, who abandons his thesis on Beckett to write a biography of Galway’s most magnetic rogue.

Between pub crawls and violent outbursts, Jack’s vengeful plot against the professor soon spirals toward chaos. Enter Emerald, an edgy young Goth who could either be the answer to Jack’s problems, or the last ripped stitch in his undoing. Ireland may be known as a “green Eden,” but in Jack Taylor’s world, the national color has a decidedly lethal sheen.

“The series that defines Irish noir.”
—BookPage, on Purgatory

“The things Jack witnesses these days... would cause a saint to go blind. And Jack, whose heroism is fueled by ‘plain old-fashioned rage, bile, and bitterness,’ is no saint. Never was, never will be. Amen.”
—New York Times Book Review, on Purgatory

“Ken Bruen might be the best-kept literary secret in Ireland.”
—Ian Rankin (Scotland), on Purgatory
“Long before our modern-day crime author draws a final, canny ace from her tartan sleeve, you’ll have succumbed to the delights of Northanger à la McDermid.” — Boston Globe

Northanger Abbey
Val McDermid

There’s an archness and precision to McDermid’s prose that beautifully echoes Austen’s own. . . . Engages in a witty conversation with the original . . . More than just a cover version. McDermid has taken possession of Northanger Abbey.” — New York Times Book Review

Now in paperback, Val McDermid’s Northanger Abbey is an updated take on Jane Austen’s classic novel about a young woman whose visit to the stately home of a well-to-do acquaintance stirs her most macabre imaginings. A homeschooled minister’s daughter in the quaint, sheltered Piddle Valley in Dorset, Cat Morland loses herself in novels (and, of course, her smartphone) and is sure there is a glamorous adventure awaiting her beyond the valley’s narrow horizon. So imagine her delight when her neighbors, the Allens, invite her to attend the Fringe Festival in Edinburgh as their guest. Cat quickly begins to take Edinburgh by storm and is taken into the bosom of the Thorpe family, particularly by eldest daughter Bella. And then she meets handsome Henry Tilney, who lives at the beautiful and forbidding Northanger Abbey. Cat is entranced by Henry and his charming sister Eleanor, but she can’t help but wonder if everything about them is as perfect as it seems. Maybe she has just been reading too many novels?

“A note perfect modern reworking of Austen’s classic gothic satire. . . . Breezy, vital, inventive . . . [McDermid’s] obvious pleasure in the task is as contagious as Austen’s wit.” — Scotsman (UK)

“McDermid has made a brilliant job of the mission she’s been given. . . . I was utterly charmed by this newfangled Austen.” — Financial Times

VAL McDERMID is the bestselling author of twenty-nine novels, which have been translated into over forty languages. She lives in Scotland.

$15.00
5½ x 8¼, 352 pp.
Fiction (FIC019000)
978-0-8021-2380-0
eISBN: 978-0-8021-8039-1
U.S. rights: Grove Press

All other rights: HarperCollins Publishers, Ltd.
(London, tel: 0208 741 7070)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: US01X
Residence: Scotland
“A fun ride that evokes the spirit of sports stunt journalist George Plimpton and the dazed road-trip fever of Hunter S. Thompson, minus the mind-altering substances. . . . It’s great watching Blatt and Brewster race home.” —Boston Globe

I Don’t Care if We Never Get Back
30 Games in 30 Days on the Best Worst Baseball Road Trip Ever
Ben Blatt and Eric Brewster

MARKETING
The authors were interviewed by NPR’s Marketplace and Slate hosted an interactive “road-trip calculator” of the authors’ design
Twitter @BenBlatt

“Full of hijinks, havoc, and humor, this is fandom to the extreme.” —Daily Beast

Ben, a sports analytics wizard, loves baseball. Eric, his best friend, hates it. But when Ben writes an algorithm for the optimal baseball road trip—an impossible dream of seeing every pitch of 30 games in 30 stadiums in 30 days—who will he call on to take shifts behind the wheel, especially when those shifts include nineteen hours straight from Phoenix to Kansas City? Eric, of course. Will Eric regret it? Most definitely.

On June 1, 2013, Ben and Eric set out to see America through the bleachers and concession stands of America’s favorite pastime. Along the way, human error and Mother Nature throw their mathematically optimized schedule a few curveballs. A mix-up in Denver turns a planned day off in Las Vegas into a twenty-hour drive, and a summer storm of biblical proportions threatens to make the whole thing logistically impossible, if they don’t kill each other first.

I Don’t Care if We Never Get Back is a charming, insightful, and hilarious book about the limits of fandom and the limitlessness of friendship.

“A cross between The Cannonball Run and The Great Race, with portions of It’s a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World thrown in for good measure. . . . Worth reading.” —Tampa Tribune

“Fast-moving and hysterical.” —Bookreporter

“Blatt and Brewster have definitely scored.” —Publishers Weekly

“If Catfish Hunter and Hunter Thompson mated, their grandkids would be Ben and Eric, whose gonzo baseball road trip glows with humor, insight, and the service engine light of their Toyota RAV4.” —Steve Rushin, author of The 34-Ton Bat

$16.00 (Canada: $17.50)
5½ x 8¼, 272 pp.
Sports (SPO003000)
978-0-8021-2376-3
U.S. and Canadian rights: Grove Press
All other rights: The Wylie Agency
(New York, tel.: 212-586-8953)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USCO
Residence: New York, New York
The long-awaited stage adaptation of the film that won seven Academy Awards including Best Picture, Shakespeare in Love has garnered astonishing reviews in London and is set to come to Broadway in Spring 2015.

Shakespeare in Love

The Play

Adapted by Lee Hall
Based on the original screenplay by Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard

“Funny, often genuinely moving and generates a glow you could warm your hands by. . . . The best British comedy since One Man, Two Guvnors and deserves equal success.”

—Daily Telegraph (5 stars)

Plagued by debt, tormented by writer’s block, and in desperate need of a new hit, promising new playwright Will Shakespeare finds his muse in the form of passionate young noblewoman Viola De Lesseps. Their forbidden love soon draws everyone, including Queen Elizabeth, into the drama, and inspires Will to write the greatest love story of all time: Romeo and Juliet. Based on the Oscar-winning screenplay by Marc Norman and Tom Stoppard, Shakespeare in Love has been deftly adapted for the stage by Lee Hall and has been playing to rave reviews and a sold-out theater at the Noël Coward in London. The London production is directed by Declan Donnellan and designed by Nick Ormerod, the driving force behind the world-renowned theater company, Cheek by Jowl. A Broadway transfer is planned for Spring 2015.

“An absolute joy from beginning to end.”

—Daily Express (5 stars)

“There’s the elating sense that the material—with its rivalry between two public playhouses echoing the feud between the Montagues and Capulets—is reveling in its natural element in the theater. . . . It makes you feel grateful to be alive.”

—Independent (5 stars)

“Marvelously fluid, riotously funny and often intensely, even startlingly, poignant . . . This may be, in part at least, a comedy about Shakespeare falling in love; but joking aside, it could just make you fall, all over again, in love with Shakespeare.”

—Chicago Tribune

$16.00
5½ x 8¼, 112 pp.
Drama (DRA003000)
978-0-8021-2395-4
U.S. rights: Grove Press

All other rights: United Agents Ltd.
(London, tel.: 203-214-0801)
Carton quantity: 56
Export: USOxE
Residence: London

Also Available:
Parade’s End (978-0-8021-2171-4 • $18.00 • USOxE)
The Coast of Utopia (978-0-8021-4340-2 • $15.00 • USOxE)
Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead (978-0-8021-3275-8 • $14.95 • USOxE)

MARKETING

Shakespeare in Love is set to be the next big British theatrical import, following the success of One Man, Two Guvnors and the upcoming Wolf Hall.

LEE HALL is the author of screenplays including Billy Elliot and War Horse and plays including Spoonface Steinberg, Cooking with Elvis, and The Pitman Painters.

TOM STOPPARD is the author of such seminal works as Rosencrantz & Guildenstern Are Dead, Junction, The Real Thing, Arcadia, The Invention of Love, and the trilogy The Coast of Utopia. His film credits include Parade’s End, Shakespeare in Love, Enigma, and Anna Karenina.
“The story of how U.S. Army Intelligence and Delta Force commandos helped Colombian police track down and kill Pablo Escobar. . . . A compelling, almost Shakespearean tale.”—Los Angeles Times

Killing Pablo

Mark Bowden

“A master of narrative journalism, [Bowden] employs the same techniques of reconstructing scenes and dialogue that made his bestselling Black Hawk Down gripping reading.” —Linda Robinson, New York Times Book Review

A tour de force of investigative journalism, Killing Pablo is the story of the violent rise and fall of Pablo Escobar, the head of the Colombian Medellin cocaine cartel. Escobar’s criminal empire held a nation of thirty million hostage in a reign of terror that would only end with his death. In an intense, up-close account, award-winning journalist Mark Bowden exposes details never before revealed about the U.S.–led covert sixteen-month manhunt. With unprecedented access to important players—including Colombian president César Gaviria and the incorruptible head of the special police unit that pursued Escobar, Colonel Hugo Martinez—as well as top-secret documents and transcripts of Escobar’s intercepted phone conversations, Bowden has produced a gripping narrative that is a stark portrayal of rough justice in the real world.

“Bowden synthesizes an extraordinary amount of research and detail, creating not only an edgy narrative of the search’s machinations but also a sobering examination of the moral dilemmas and futility of the entire operation.” —Andrew Roe, San Francisco Chronicle

“Mark Bowden has a way of making modern nonfiction read like the best of novels. . . . [Killing Pablo] is absolutely riveting. . . . Bowden uses his considerable reporting skills to tell a straight-up story with precision and panache.” —Tom Walker, Denver Post

MARK BOWDEN is the author of nine books, including Black Hawk Down, The Best Game Ever, Bringing the Heat, Guests of the Ayatollah, and The Finish. He reported at the Philadelphia Inquirer for twenty years and now writes for Vanity Fair, Atlantic, and other magazines.
“[A] destined-to-be classic . . . Hayder’s work and characters are worth the unending nightmares they will inspire.”—New York Times Book Review

Wolf

A Jack Caffery Thriller

Mo Hayder

MARKETING

Hayder won the 2012 Edgar Award for Best Novel for Gone and the 2011 Crime Writers’ Association’s Dagger in the Library Award for outstanding body of work

Hayder is an internationally bestselling author, with more than 5 million copies sold worldwide online promotion (mohayder.net)

backlist eBook promotions

Also Available:

Poppet
(978-0-8021-2108-0 • $15 • USOxe)

Hanging Hill
(978-0-8021-2085-4 • $15 • USOxe)

Gone
(978-0-8021-4570-3 • $14 • USOxe)

“The home invasion novel to end all home invasion novels . . . Not unlike John Connolly’s Charlie Parker novels or T. Jefferson Parker’s Charlie Hood books. Wolf is exceptionally original in premise and nightmarish in its rendering.”

—BookPage

Edgar Award winner and international bestseller Mo Hayder is known for her nightmarishly dark, impeccably plotted thrillers. In Wolf, now in paperback, Hayder ratchets up the terror yet another notch with a bone-chilling novel about a family held hostage in their country home. When a vagrant—the Walking Man, a recurring character in Hayder’s fiction—finds a dog wandering alone with a scrap of paper with the words “help us” attached to its collar, he’s sure it’s a desperate plea from someone in trouble and calls on Detective Inspector Jack Caffery to investigate. Caffery is reluctant to get involved—until the Walking Man promises in exchange new information regarding the childhood disappearance of Caffery’s brother. Meanwhile, the Anchor-Ferrers, a wealthy local family, are fighting for their lives in their remote home ten miles away. As their ordeal becomes increasingly bizarre and humiliating, the family begins to wonder: Is this really a random crime, or have they been chosen for a reason?

“Mo Hayder is a master of ratcheting up tension throughout a book—to the point that one must simply finish it before doing anything else. Such is the case with Wolf.”

—Deadly Pleasures (rating: A-)

“Mo Hayder’s books featuring Jack Caffery are always an entertaining and engaging read, and this one doesn’t disappoint.”

—Euro Crime

© MARGARET LISTER

MO HAYDER won the Edgar Award for Best Novel for Gone and the 2011 Crime Writers’ Association Dagger in the Library Award for outstanding body of work. She is also the author of Birdman, The Treatment, The Devil of Nanking, Pig Island, Ritual, Skin, Hanging Hill, and Poppet.
“With remarkable economy and finesse . . . unsentimentally and vividly, Edelman re-creates the chaos, the din, and the brutality as everything was stolen from Warsaw’s Jews in the winter of 1940.”
—Washington Post Book World

The Train to Warsaw
Gwen Edelman

MARKETING
Received stellar reviews and blurbs from André Aciman, Mary-Beth Hughes, Jamie Quatro, Michael Lavigne, and Allison Amend

paperback review coverage targeted outreach to Jewish press reading group available online at groveatlantic.com
also available as an Audible audiobook

“Edelman’s intimate tale lets us eavesdrop on a couple’s return to Warsaw, traversing decades of conflict, betrayal, and secrecy—in war as in marriage. Love, it turns out, may be the only country one ever has hopes of returning home to.”
—André Aciman

“Edelman’s spare, intimate narrative belies the sweeping devastation of what’s beneath: the alternating rage and despair of survival, and a desperate love that spans a lifetime. . . . This is a fearless, achingly important work of fiction.”
—Jamie Quatro

Jascha and Lilka separately fled from the Warsaw Ghetto in 1942. Reunited years later, they live in London where Jascha has become a celebrated writer, feted for his dark tales about his war adventures. One day, forty years after the war, Jascha receives a letter inviting him to give a reading in Warsaw. He tells Lilka that nothing remains of the city they knew and that wild horses couldn’t drag him back. Nostalgic for the city of her childhood, Lilka prevails; together, traveling by train through a frozen December landscape, they return to the city of their past. When they unwittingly find themselves back in what was once the ghetto, they will discover that they still have secrets between them.

“A powerful and moving novel that is both disturbing and exhilarating.”
—Washington Independent Review of Books

“Edelman’s intimate tale lets us eavesdrop on a couple’s return to Warsaw, traversing decades of conflict, betrayal, and secrecy—in war as in marriage. Love, it turns out, may be the only country one ever has hopes of returning home to.”
—André Aciman

“Edelman’s spare, intimate narrative belies the sweeping devastation of what’s beneath: the alternating rage and despair of survival, and a desperate love that spans a lifetime. . . . This is a fearless, achingly important work of fiction.”
—Jamie Quatro

GWEN EDELMAN’s first novel, War Story, was translated into eight languages, won the Prix du Premier Roman Étranger in France, and was a Koret Jewish Book Award finalist. She has organized lectures at the 92nd St. Y on Holocaust subjects.

$14.00 (Canada: $15.50)
5½ x 8¼, 208 pp.
Historical Fiction (FIC014000)
978-0-8021-2384-8
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9264-6
U.S. and Canadian rights: Grove Press

All other rights: Brandt & Hochman Literary Agents
(New York, tel.: 212-556-2760)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USC
Residence: New York City
“A taut, witty, fiercely intelligent tale of competing egos and desires in a landscape of exotic menace—a love triangle in extremis . . . The steam the book emits is as much intellectual as erotic.”
—New York Times Book Review (cover review)

Euphoria
Lily King

MARKETING
Winner of the Kirkus Prize for Fiction
Two-time winner of the 2014 New England Book Award for Fiction
A national bestseller author appearances
paperback review coverage
online advertising, including Goodreads
NPR sponsorship campaign
“Inside the Book” reading group guide online promotion (lilykingbooks.com)
Twitter @lilykingbooks
also available as a Blackstone audiobook

LILY KING is the author of the novels The Pleasing Hour, The English Teacher, and Father of the Rain, a New York Times Editor’s Choice and winner of the New England Book Award for Fiction. King is the recipient of a Whiting Writers’ Award and the Maine Fiction Award twice. She lives with her husband and children in Maine.

“Enthralling . . . From Conrad to Kingsolver, the misdeeds of Westerners have inspired their own literary subgenre, and in King’s insightful, romantic addition, the work of novelist and anthropologist find resonant parallel: In the beauty and cruelty of others, we discover our own.”
—Vogue

Lauded on the cover of the New York Times Book Review and winner of the 2014 New England Book Award for Fiction and finalist for the Kirkus Prize for Fiction, Euphoria is Lily King’s nationally bestselling breakout novel of three young, gifted anthropologists of the 1930s caught in a passionate love triangle that threatens their bonds, their careers, and ultimately their lives. Inspired by events in the life of revolutionary anthropologist Margaret Mead, Euphoria is one of Salon’s Best Books of the Year (So Far) and “an intellectually stimulating tour de force” (NPR.com).

“Dazzling . . . suspenseful . . . brilliant . . . Euphoria is an exhilarating novel.”
—Boston Globe

“This novel is as concentrated as orchid food, packing as much narrative power and intellectual energy into its 250 pages as novels triple its size.”
—Newsday

“Euphoria is King’s first work of historical fiction. For this dramatic new venture, she retains all the fine qualities that made her three previous novels insightful and absorbing, but now she’s working on top of a vast body of scholarly work and public knowledge . . . Poetic in its compression and efficiency, Euphoria presumes some familiarity with Mead’s biography for context and background, and yet it also deviates from that history in promiscuous ways . . . exquisite.”
—Washington Post
“King is brilliant.”
—New York Times Book Review (front-page review)

“Thrilling . . . intense, seductive, sexual, and intellectual . . . There are so many exhilarating elements to savor . . . By the end of Euphoria, this reader sighed with wistful satisfaction, wishing the book would go on.

Brava to Lily King.”
—San Francisco Chronicle

“A story that begs to be consumed in one or two luxurious binges.”
—Salon

“It’s a rare novel that rises to the level of Euphoria . . . the writing . . . sweeps you away . . . Put Euphoria in your book bag for those trips to the beach. You’ll be glad you did.”
—Portland Herald Press

“Smart, sexy, concise.”
—Cleveland Plain Dealer

“Exciting . . . a wonderfully vivid and perceptive tale . . . King’s prose sparkles.”
—Minneapolis Star Tribune

“Romantic, exotic, informative, and entertaining.”
—Reader’s Digest’s Summer Reading List

“Masterful . . .
Euphoria begins so deep in the action that the reader is captured on page one . . . a riveting and provocative novel, absolutely first-rate.”
—Seattle Times
America
Andy Warhol

A reissue of one of Warhol’s most important and intriguing books, originally published in 1985 but long out of print: a collection of Warhol’s own photographs interspersed with anecdotes, witticisms, and deceptively profound thoughts about America.

We’re the states who thought of uniting into the best country in the world, and we’re the only country that thought of making the word part of our name. Brazil doesn’t call itself “Brazil of America.” So we’ve got a right to call ourselves “America” for short, any time we want. It’s a beautiful word, and everybody knows it means us.

Andy Warhol carried a camera with him everywhere he went and America, a mélange of text and image whose photographs were selected by Warhol from ten years of extraordinary shots, echoes the strange beauty and staggering contradictions of the country itself. Exploring Warhol’s greatest obsessions—including image and celebrity—Warhol photographs wrestlers and politicians, the beautiful wealthy and the disenfranchised poor. Many well-known figures are found in these pages: Capote with the fresh scars of a face-lift, Madonna hiding beneath a brunette bob, a nude Keith Haring about to go for a dip in the sea. In America, Warhol writes about the country he loves, about how he wishes he had died when he was shot in 1968, about commercialism, fame, and beauty. An America without Warhol is almost as inconceivable as Warhol without America, and this touching, witty tribute is the great artist of the superficial at his most deeply personal.

“Warhol’s eye catches the odd contradiction, the outlandish, the amusing, the touching. It is never contemptuous. The cumulative effect tells us something about contemporary America beyond the familiar picture-magazine view.... a truth-telling oratory style not unlike that of Will Rogers, with echoes of Mark Twain.”

—Library Journal

“He understood our obsession with celebrity culture better—and sooner—than anyone else.”

—Sunday Telegraph

“He created his own universe and became its star.”—David Cronenberg, Guardian

MARKETING
Targeted outreach to museums and galleries

A: A Novel
(978-0-8021-3553-7 • $14.95 • USCO)

ANDY WARHOL was one of the most influential artists of the postwar era, and also produced a significant body of film work, including Chelsea Girls. He was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in 1928 and died in 1987.
“Innovative State is must-reading for anyone interested in tackling America’s biggest problems. We’ve seen how new technologies have dramatically changed the media industry, and Chopra shows how we can use them to remake our government.” —Arianna Huffington

Innovative State
How New Technologies Can Transform Government
Aneesh Chopra

MARKETING
Innovative State was featured on The Daily Show with Jon Stewart, MSNBC’s Morning Joe, TechNation, and NPR’s The Kojo Nnamdi Show with a new foreword by the author tie-in with author lecture schedule
Twitter @aneeshchopra
also available as an Audible audiobook

“Aneesh Chopra has been the leader of the movement to use technology to revolutionize government in the same way technology has been used to transform other aspects of our lives. With inspiring stories and clear insights, he provides a playbook for open innovations that work both in the public and the private sector.” —Walter Isaacson

Over the last twenty years, our economy and our society have been completely revolutionized by technology. As Aneesh Chopra shows in Innovative State, once it became clear how much this would change America, a movement arose around the idea that these same technologies could reshape and improve government. But the idea languished, and while the private sector innovated, our government stalled.

The election of Barack Obama offered a new opportunity. In 2009, Aneesh Chopra was named the first chief technology officer of the United States. Previously the secretary of technology for Virginia and managing director for a health care think tank, Chopra led the administration’s initiatives for a more open, tech-savvy government. In Innovative State, he draws on this experience and interviews with policy experts and tech insiders to offer an absorbing look at how government can establish a new paradigm for the Internet era and allow us to tackle our most challenging problems, from economic development to veteran affairs.

“Valuable for policymakers.” —Kirkus Reviews

“Aneesh Chopra is an innovator, and an inspiration. Read his book to learn a ton of terrific news about what has been happening in American government and about what might happen in the future.” —Cass Sunstein

ANNEESH CHOPRA was the first chief technology officer of the United States government. Currently, he is the cofounder and executive vice president of Hunch Analytics, a technology firm focused on improving public and regulated sectors through data analytics, and a member of the Council on Virginia’s Future. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins and the Harvard Kennedy School of Government.

© WASHINGTON SPEAKERS BUREAU, INC.

$16.00 (Canada: $17.50)
5½ x 8¾, 320 pp.
Political Science (POL028000)
978-0-8021-2134-9
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9346-9
World rights: Grove Press
Rights sold: CITIC Press Corporation (China)
“The most original of First World War centenary books. . . . A travel narrative of rare resonance and insight.”
—Sunday Times (UK)

The Trigger
Hunting the Assassin Who Brought the World to War
Tim Butcher

MARKETING
A Kirkus Reviews Best Nonfiction Book of the Year
An Amazon Book of the Month pick in the history category
paperback review coverage
Twitter @timbobutcher

Also Available:
Blood River
(978-0-8021-4433-1 • $16 • USO)

TIM BUTCHER worked for the Daily Telegraph from 1990 to 2009 as chief war correspondent, Africa bureau chief, and Middle East correspondent. His first book, Blood River, was a number-one bestseller in the UK and was shortlisted for the Samuel Johnson Prize. He lives in Cape Town.

“A fascinating history of a complex region rife with ethnic rivalries and a vivid travelogue. . . . A haunting and illuminating book.”
—Kirkus Reviews (starred review)

On a summer morning in Sarajevo a hundred years ago, a teenager named Gavrilo Princip took a pistol out of his pocket and fired the opening rounds of the First World War. By killing Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian Empire, Gavrilo Princip started a cycle of events that would change the world forever. Retracing Princip’s steps from the feudal frontier village of his birth to the great plain city of Belgrade and ultimately Sarajevo, award-winning explorer and bestselling author Tim Butcher makes discoveries about the assassin that have eluded historians for a hundred years. Drawing on his own experiences in the Balkans as a war reporter during the 1990s, he also unravels this complex part of the world and its conflicts, showing how the events that were sparked that day in June 1914 still have influence today. Part travelogue, part reportage, and part history, The Trigger is a rich and timely work about one of history’s most crucial and least-understood characters.

“Riveting.”—New York Times

“In this book, a masterpiece of historical empathy and evocation, Tim Butcher goes in search of the person behind the myths. . . . A tour de force.”
—Guardian (UK)

“The finest contribution so far this year to the rapidly expanding literature on the Great War.”
—Herald Scotland

$16.00 (Canada: $17.50)
5¼ x 8¼, 336 pp.
History (HIS040000)
978-0-8021-2389-3
U.S. and Canadian rights: Grove Press

All other rights: Janklow & Nesbit Ltd.
(London, tel.: 44 207 243-2975)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USCOxE
Previous ISBN: 978-0-8021-2325-1
Residence: Cape Town, South Africa

58
“A profound, inspiring biography of a unique American woman who’s earned her place alongside Huck Finn, Thoreau, and other heroic wanderers.” —Associated Press

Untamed
The Wildest Woman in America and the Fight for Cumberland Island
Will Harlan

MARKETING
A national bestseller, a Barnes & Noble Discover Great New Writers selection, and an Amazon pick in the biography and memoir category
Excerpted by the Atlanta Journal-Constitution paperback review coverage online promotion (will-harlan.com)
also available as an Audible audiobook

C
arol Ruckdeschel is the wildest woman in America. She eats roadkill, wrestles alligators, rides horses bareback, and lives in a ramshackle cabin that she built herself in an island wilderness. She’s had three husbands and many lovers, one of whom she shot and killed in self-defense. A combination of Henry David Thoreau and Jane Goodall, Carol is a self-taught scientist who has become a tireless defender of sea turtles on Cumberland Island, a national park off the coast of Georgia.

Cumberland is the country’s largest and most biologically diverse barrier island, celebrated for its windswept dunes and feral horses. Steel magnate Thomas Carnegie owned much of Cumberland, and his widow Lucy made it a Gilded Age playground. But in recent years, Carnegie heirs and the National Park Service have clashed with Carol over the island’s future. What happens when a dirt-poor naturalist with only a high school diploma tries to stop one of the wealthiest families in America? Untamed is the story of an American original standing her ground and fighting for what she believes in, no matter the cost.

“Vivid.” —Wall Street Journal

“Harlan intimately and expansively profiles a fearless Southern island dweller. . . . A moving homage and an adventure story that artfully articulates the ferocities of nature and humanity.” —Kirkus Reviews

“Deliciously engrossing. . . . Readers are in for a wild ride.” —Citizen-Times (Asheville, NC) “Engrossing . . . The best novels are not just written but built—scene by scene, character by character—until a world emerges for readers to fall into. Painted Horses creates several worlds.”
—USA Today (4 out of 4 stars)

Painted Horses
Malcolm Brooks

MARKETING
National bestseller
#1 Indie Next Great Read for August 2014
A Barnes & Noble Discover Selection
Amazon Book of the Month and the Amazon Debut Spotlight for August 2014
paperback review coverage
reading group outreach
online advertising, including Goodreads
“Inside the Book” reading group guide online promotion (malcolmbrooks.net)
also available as a Blackstone audiobook

“Extraordinary . . . Both intimate and sweeping in a way that may remind readers of Michael Ondaatje’s The English Patient. . . . Painted Horses is, after all, one of those big, old-fashioned novels where the mundane and the unlikely coexist.”
—Boston Globe

In the mid-1950s, America was flush with prosperity and saw an unbroken line of progress clear to the horizon, while the West was still very much wild. In Painted Horses, now in paperback, a dauntless woman travels into that untamed landscape in an adventure that will change her life. Catherine Lemay is a young archaeologist who’s come to Montana with a huge task before her—a canyon “as deep as the devil’s own appetites.” Working ahead of a major dam project, she has one summer to prove nothing of historical value will be lost in the flood. From the moment she arrives, nothing is what she expects. John H is a former mustanger with an intuitive genius for breaking horses. A veteran of the U.S. Army’s last mounted cavalry campaign, he lives a fugitive life, driven by pursuit of one last wild thing. John H inspires Catherine to see beauty in the stark landscape, and her heart opens to more than just the vanished past. Painted Horses sings a love song to the horseman’s vanishing way of life and reminds us that love and ambition, tradition and progress, often make strange bedfellows.

“Malcolm Brooks’s novel has the hard thrill of the West when it was still a new world, the tenderness of first love, and the pain of knowledge. . . . A gripping, compulsively readable page-turner.”
—Amy Bloom
“Reminiscent of the fiery, lyrical and animated spirit of Cormac McCarthy’s Border trilogy and the wisdom and elegance of Wallace Stegner’s Angle of Repose, Painted Horses is its own work, a big, old-fashioned, and important novel.”

—Rick Bass

“Evocative . . . Brooks’s prose rings true and borders on poetic when he tackles the biggest things in his novel: themes of love, what one is willing to fight for, what to give up for something held more dear, and, in the end, what it takes to recover from what has been lost.”

—Seattle Times

“Painted Horses reads like a cross between Charles Frazier’s Cold Mountain and Ernest Hemingway’s A Farewell to Arms, with a pinch of Michael Ondaatje’s The English Patient for good measure.”

—Dallas Morning News

“Painted Horses vividly evokes an earlier time, a place and a way of being that is at the cusp of great change. In his gift for the language of horses and the culture of horsemen, Brooks will inevitably recall Cormac McCarthy. And like Ivan Doig in Bucking the Sun, he mines one of the darker veins in the mythology of the American West, the seam where ‘greatness gets built on destruction.’”

—Washington Post

“Painted Horses is evidence that the many-peopled, colorific, panoramic, fully wraparound, pull-you-in-by-the-heels, big-questions, literarily deft Great American Novel still lives.”

—Carolyn Chute

“A love song to the Western frontier, Painted Horses is a new, truly American work of art.”

—San Antonio Current

“Painted Horses is a wonderful novel full of horses, archeology, the new West, and two fascinating women. Malcolm Brooks should be lauded for this amazing debut. Very fine.”

—Jim Harrison

“Ambitious and affecting . . . A sweeping and dramatic saga . . . Brooks . . . reveals the deep contradictions that are at the heart of Americans’ reverence for the West, until that reverence comes into conflict with progress. . . . Destined to form part of the canon of Montana literature as it preserves a piece of the past by exposing not just myth but deeper truth.”

—Big Sky Journal
“[Leon] offers a fresh, exhilarating take on that ambiguous city, with its labyrinthine alleyways and politics, its glamour, its grottiness. . . . An intelligent, satisfying crime novel.”
—Sunday Times (UK)

Quietly in Their Sleep
A Commissario Guido Brunetti Mystery
Donna Leon

“Brunetti is the most humane sleuth since Georges Simenon’s Inspector Maigret. . . . He is a decent man [who achieves] a quiet heroism.”
—Philadelphia Inquirer

In the sixth book featuring Donna Leon’s ever-charming and sympathetic protagonist, Commissario Guido Brunetti comes to the aid of a young nursing sister who has had five patients unexpectedly die and decides to leave her convent. In the course of his inquiries, Brunetti encounters an unusual cast of characters but discovers nothing that seems criminal. Is the nun simply creating a smoke screen to justify abandoning her vocation? Or has she stumbled onto something very real and very sinister—something that places her own life in imminent danger? A beautiful, suspense-filled novel, Quietly in Their Sleep is Donna Leon at the top of her form.

“Intelligent and deeply satisfying mysteries. . . . The Venetian detective has reached . . . iconic status.”
—Seattle Times

Through a Glass, Darkly
A Commissario Guido Brunetti Mystery
Donna Leon

“A smart and stylish, fast-paced case of intrigue and corruption, written with wit, affection and authority. . . . Impressive.”
—Los Angeles Times

On a luminous spring day in Venice, Commissario Guido Brunetti and Inspector Vianello play hooky to help get Vianello’s friend Marco Ribetti—an environmental activist arrested during a protest against toxic waste being dumped into the city’s waters—released from prison. But on the steps of the police headquarters, they come face-to-face with Ribetti’s cantankerous father-in-law, who has been overheard making threats against Ribetti. And when the body of a night watchman is at the father-in-law’s glass factory next to an annotated copy of Dante’s Inferno, Brunetti must find out if there is a connection between this and whoever is ruining the waters of the lagoon.

“Atmosphere and a sense of place are crucial to any successful series, and few do it better than Donna Leon with her mysteries featuring Commissario Guido Brunetti of Venice. . . . Leon is pitch-perfect as ever.”
—Cleveland Plain Dealer

also available as a Blackstone audiobook

Murder on the Iditarod Trail

An Alaska Mystery

Sue Henry

MARKETING

Murder on the Iditarod Trail won the Macavity Award and the Anthony Award for Best First Novel

Murder on the Iditarod Trail is the first novel in Sue Henry’s Alaska Mystery series featuring Alaskan state trooper Alex Jensen and dogsled racer Jessie Arnold

targeted outreach to mystery & thriller press

“Engrossing . . . The howling winds, the snow, the ice, the dancing away from wolves, the crazing fatigue, the welcome heat and food, are almost palpable.”

—Los Angeles Times Book Review

Now in Grove Press paperback for the first time, Murder on the Iditarod Trail is a gripping mystery set during Alaska’s world-famous Iditarod: a grueling eleven-hundred-mile dogsled race across hazardous Arctic terrain. It is an arduous sport, but not a deadly one. But suddenly the top Iditarod contestants are dying in bizarre ways: first a veteran musher smashes into a tree, then competitors begin turning up dead, with each murder more brutal than the last. State trooper Alex Jensen begins a homicide investigation, determined to track down the killer before more blood stains the pristine Alaskan snow. Meanwhile, Jessie Arnold, Alaska’s premier female musher, has a shot at winning for the first time. But as her position in the race improves, so do her chances of being the killer’s next target. As the mushers thread their way through the treacherous trails, Jessie and Jensen are drawn deep into the frozen heart of the perilous wild: where nature can kill as easily as a bullet and only the Arctic night can hear your final screams.

“Excellent . . . well-paced, well-conceived, engrossing . . . moves along like a healthy, well-trained dog team.”

—Anchorage Times

“A book that will give you a feel for how the Iditarod is . . . Sue Henry has a genius for characterization, plot, and setting.”

—Mystery News

SUE HENRY’s award-winning Alaska mysteries have received the highest praise from readers and critics alike. She has lived in Alaska for almost thirty years, and brings history, Alaskan lore, and the majestic beauty of the vast landscape to her mysteries. Based in Anchorage, she is currently at work on the next book in this series.

$14.00 (Canada: $15.50)
5½ x 8¼, 246 pp.
Mystery (FIC022000)
978-0-8021-2339-8
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9165-6
World rights: Grove Press

All other rights: Dominick Abel Literary Agency, Inc. (New York, tel: 212-877-0710)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: World
Previous ISBN: 978-0-87113-440-0
Residence: Alaska
Josh Weil’s The Great Glass Sea is the most unexpected second book by a writer of note to appear in years . . . an absorbing and touching tale . . . Few young writers appreciate landscape, the way it shapes and diminishes people who live off it, quite like Weil . . . an engrossing story of brotherly division.”
—John Freeman, Boston Globe

The Great Glass Sea
Josh Weil

“Moving and sensitive . . . evokes the mythic feel of a contemporary classic. There’s pathos and tension . . . breathtaking brilliance. Weil’s greatest gift to the reader: a deep understanding of family, personal loss, and the abiding love between siblings.”
—Los Angeles Times

The much-anticipated debut novel from National Book Award “Five Under Thirty-Five” author Josh Weil, whom Colum McCann lauded as one of the “most gifted writers of his generation,” The Great Glass Sea is an epic tale of brotherly love, a sui generis novel swathed in all the magic of Russian folklore and set against the backdrop of an all-too-real alternate present. This is an ambitious novel of love, loss, and light and a spellbinding vision of an alternative Russia as stirring as it is profound.

“Vivid prose and soaring imagination . . . an inventive dystopian tale from a brilliant storyteller about a not-so-far-fetched alternate present, a tale about family and brotherhood that simultaneously brings to light poignant political and philosophical inquiries. It’s a stunningly imagined debut that will dazzle and mesmerize readers as they disappear into its visionary depths and resurface with a new and more profound understanding of fraternal love.”
—Bustle, July 2014’s Best Books

“When Weil’s prose and ‘Russian novel’ connect with our contemporary anxieties about the future of labor and value, something magical happens.”
—Austin American Statesman

MARKETING
A New York Times Editors’ Choice; a featured LA Times Summer Book; a Bustle Best Book for July 2014; one of Flavorwire’s 10 Must-Read Books for July Shortlisted for the Flaherty Dunnan First Novel Award
paperback review coverage online promotion (joshweil.com)

Also Available:
The New Valley (978-0-8021-4486-7 • $14 • W)

JOSH WEIL was awarded the Sue Kaufman Prize from the American Academy of Arts and Letters for his novella collection, The New Valley. A National Book Award “Five Under Thirty-Five” author, he has received fellowships from the Fulbright Foundation, Columbia University, the MacDowell Colony, Bread Loaf, and Sewanee. His fiction has appeared in Granta, Esquire, One Story, and Tin House.

$16.00 (Canada: $17.50)
5½ x 8¼, 480 pp.
Fiction (FIC019000)
978-0-8021-2371-8
eISBN: 978-0-8021-9286-8
U.S. and Canadian rights: Grove Press
All other rights: Janklow & Nesbit Ltd.
(New York, tel.: 212-421-1700)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USCO
Previous ISBN: 978-0-8021-2215-5
Residence: New York City
“[A] fascinating debut novel . . . hauntingly beautiful . . .

The Great Glass Sea is not an alternative history . . . but a fantastical vision inspired by bits and pieces of Russian language history, and culture. It is beautifully baffled by the mysterious Russian soul.”

—NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW

“A work of great ambition and imagination.”
—Christian Science Monitor

“When Weil’s prose and ‘Russian novel’ connect with our contemporary anxieties about the future of labor and value, something magical happens.”
—Austin American Statesman

“An ambitious and accomplished debut novel, one that reshapes the world even as it reflects our own reality back to us, now more brightly lit than ever before.”
—Brooklyn Rail

“Brilliant and dark . . . a must-read for fans of literary fiction.”
—BookPage

“Formidable . . . dazzling . . . [Weil’s] distinctive voice obliges readers to slow down and swish certain passages around before swallowing.”
—Atlanta Journal-Constitution

“A genuinely fascinating novel—for its inventiveness, its passionate breadth and vision.”—Richard Ford

“I was intoxicated by this novel’s brains, and I fell hopelessly in love with its heart. Josh Weil is a spectacular talent.”—Lauren Groff

“A marvelously strange parable, brought to earth by a nuanced and deeply felt portrait of fraternal love. . . . Josh Weil is a storyteller of the first order.”
—Joshua Ferris

“Highly original . . . An ambitious and richly imagined debut novel.”
—Minneapolis Star Tribune

“Captivating. A kind of sweeping historical fable . . . superbly drawn.”
—Associated Press

“Totally engrossing.”
—Flavorwire, 10 Must-Read Books for July
“So sneakily brilliant it’s hard to put into words. Part travelogue, part memoir, part reportage on Mexican politics and the scourge of narco-terrorism, it is also, in the finest sense, a book that creates its own form. . . . Genius.”—David L. Ulin, Los Angeles Times

The Interior Circuit
Francisco Goldman

MARKETING
An Amazon “Best of” pick for July; one of New York’s Vulture blog’s Seven Books You Need to Read This July Goldman was featured on NPR’s Weekend Edition and the BBC’s News Magazine
paperback review coverage online promotion (franciscogoldman.com)
also available as an Audible audiobook
Also Available:
Say Her Name
(978-0-8021-4580-2 • $15 • USCO)
The Art of Political Murder
(978-0-8021-4385-3 • $15 • USCO)
The Long Night of White Chickens
(978-0-8021-4460-7 • $15 • USCO)
The Ordinary Seaman
(978-0-8021-2261-2 • $15 • USCO)
The Divine Husband
(978-0-8021-4221-4 • $14 • USCO)

FRANCISCO GOLDMAN is the author of the novels Say Her Name, winner of the Prix Femina; The Long Night of White Chickens, winner of the Sue Kaufman Prize for First Fiction; The Ordinary Seaman, a finalist for the IMPAC Dublin Literary Award; The Divine Husband; and the nonfiction book The Art of Political Murder: Who Killed the Bishop?

“Remarkable . . . Sentence by sentence, Goldman brings to life a city that is bewitching, terrifying, beautiful . . . Goldman brings something new to the [chronicle] form.”
—John Freeman, Boston Globe

Publishing to rave reviews, The Interior Circuit is multi-award-winning author Francisco Goldman’s brilliant chronicle of his emergence from grief five years after his beloved wife’s death, symbolized by his attempt to overcome his fear of driving in Mexico City (the DF). When organized crime erupts in the city in an unprecedented way during the summer of 2013, Goldman sets out to try to understand the menacing challenges the DF now faces. By turns exuberant, poetic, reportorial, philosophical, and urgent, The Interior Circuit fuses a personal journey to a searing account of one of the world’s most remarkable and often misunderstood great cities.

“An indispensable contribution to the growing body of artistic representations of Mexico’s most recent years of darkness . . . there is an urgent, raw beauty in [Goldman’s] prose.”
—Rubén Martínez, Los Angeles Review of Books

“Though much can be said about the elegance of Goldman’s writing and the piercing quality of his reportage, it’s really the emotion-driven moments . . . that take The Interior Circuit to a commendable height that even crónica doesn’t set out to reach . . . moving and eye-opening . . . a love letter to Mexico City.”
—Rigoberto González, San Francisco Chronicle

“This book is an exquisite, deeply funny, truly gorgeous panorama of Mexico City by a writer of enormous sensitivities who notices everything. This book will charm and urgently engage you like no other because it is so totally original.”
—Rachel Kushner

$16.00 (Canada: $17.50)
5½ x 8¼, 352 pp.
Travel Essays (TRV014000)
978-0-8021-2377-0
World rights: Grove Press
Rights sold: Grove Press UK, Christian Bourgois (France), Cankarjeva Založba-Založništvo (Slovenia), Turner (Spain)

All other rights: International Creative Management (New York, tel.: 212-556-5600)
Carton quantity: 36
Export: USCO
Previous ISBN: 978-0-8021-2256-8
Residence: Brooklyn, New York
From an interview with NPR’s Arun Rath

ARUN RATH, HOST: Goldman’s new nonfiction book struck me as a love letter to Mexico City. And when I spoke with him, he agreed.

FRANCISCO GOLDMAN: A love letter to the city and I suppose a horror letter to the city, too—a lot of different things. If it is the main character of the book, that would be a character with one hundred heads and two million feet, you know. It’s constantly metamorphosing into something else.

RATH: Well, let’s talk about that complexity and those contradictions, because I’ve never been to Mexico City. And there’s a stereotype of pollution and corruption and violence and crime. And that’s there, but you paint a different sort of picture.

F. GOLDMAN: You know, I love living here. And I don’t just love living here, I think this place got me through a very difficult period in my life, and I wanted to celebrate that. I think the common stereotype of Mexico City, you know, the things that you just mentioned, that it’s dangerous and so forth. The remarkable thing about the city is that, especially since 1998, this has been really a pretty uniquely well-governed place in a way that sets it apart from all the rest of Mexico. In the 1990s, this was a place notorious, and deservedly notorious, all over the world for crime, for kidnappings, for murder. And by the time you get to 2010, for example, the crime rate in Mexico City is pretty much the same as New York City’s.

RATH: It’s an unusual book because there’s great travel writing, there are reflections on grief and on death. There’s investigative journalism mixed into it and political—recent political history of Mexico. Did you set out to write it in that way?

F. GOLDMAN: Not at all. I think the metaphor at the heart of the book, right as when I go and do that driving project, I realized in the five years of grief I hadn’t driven a car anywhere, which seemed to me a metaphor of the sort of listlessness and loneliness of grief. And I said, I’m going to get over this. I’m going to attack driving in Mexico City this summer. I even took some driving lessons. And I used the Guia Roji, which is this fabulous, Yellow Pages—thick book of street maps that taxi drivers and everybody used to get around this impossible city. My plan was to open it up to any random page, drop my finger down, and then need to drive to that spot. And in a way, that’s how the book kind of evolved in this kind of letting myself be led from one aspect of Mexico City to another aspect of Mexico City.
“Journalist Elizabeth Mitchell recounts the captivating story behind the familiar monument that readers may have assumed they knew everything about.”
—Sam Roberts, New York Times

Liberty’s Torch
The Great Adventure to Build the Statue of Liberty
Elizabeth Mitchell

MARKETING
One of O Magazine’s Twenty-One Books You Must Read Before Summer Ends, Liberty’s Torch received off-the-book page coverage in USA Today, Metro, and the New York Times
Mitchell appeared on MSNBC’s The Cycle,
FOX’s Good Day New York, Huffington Post Live, WNYC’s The Leonard Lopate Show, and more than twenty-five drive-time radio programs
tie-in with author lecture schedule
paperback review coverage
social media campaign via GroveAtlantic.com, Facebook, Twitter, and Tumblr
also available as an Audible audiobook

“An absolutely brilliant and entertaining book. A delightful romp through a seemingly impossible history. It’s a bit amazing how much I didn’t know about the best-known statue in America, or its maker, Frederic Bartholdi—a character so brazen and outrageous and charming that his life reads like a picaresque nineteenth-century novel. I delighted in every page.”
—Elizabeth Gilbert, author of The Signature of All Things and Eat, Pray, Love

The Statue of Liberty is one of the most recognizable monuments in the world, a powerful symbol of freedom and the American Dream. For decades, the myth persisted that the statue was a grand gift from France, but now Liberty’s Torch reveals how she was indeed the huge project of one quixotic and visionary French sculptor: Frédéric Auguste Bartholdi.

Bartholdi not only forged this 151-foot-tall colossus in a workshop in Paris and transported her across the ocean, but battled setback after setback in order to raise the money for the statue and make her a reality. Inspired by the great pyramids of Egypt—the statue was originally planned to crown the Suez Canal—Bartholdi came to America and enlisted the help of many notables of the age, including Ulysses S. Grant, Joseph Pulitzer, Gustave Eiffel, and Thomas Edison, in order to make his statue a reality.

Riveting, elegantly told, and drawing on newly discovered sources, Liberty’s Torch traces the building of the Statue of Liberty in all its rich historical detail, recounting the all-but-forgotten tale of an extraordinary artist and entrepreneur who fought setback after setback to create a wonder of the modern world.
“By explaining Liberty’s tortured history and resurrecting Bartholdi’s indomitable spirit, Mitchell has done a great service. This is narrative history, well told. It is history that connects us to our past and—hopefully—to our future.”

—Los Angeles Times

“Mitchell’s book does a fine job of retrieving [Bartholdi] from the mists of history—and of recounting how long and hard he labored, not just artistically but financially and politically, to make the statue a reality. . . . Fascinating.”

—Tampa Bay Times

“Streamlined and well-constructed. . . . deft strokes and always apt, telling details . . . In Bartholdi, Mitchell has found a fascinating character through which to view late-nineteenth-century America, and she does readers a service by sifting fact from fiction in the creation of one our most beloved monuments.”

—Boston Globe

“Turns out that what you thought you knew about Lady Liberty is dead wrong. Learn the truth in this fascinating account.”

—O, the Oprah Magazine
The electricity has flickered out. The automobile age is over. The people of the little town of Union Grove in upstate New York know little about what is going on outside Washington County, but a messenger is returning with the news . . .

A History of the Future
A World Made by Hand Novel
James Howard Kunstler

MARKETING

World Made by Hand was a cult sensation and has sold over 70,000 copies Featured as Penthouse's excerpt of the month for September
paperback review coverage
tie-in with author lecture schedule online promotion (kunstler.com)
Twitter @jhkunstler
also available as a Blackstone audiobook

JAMES HOWARD KUNSTLER is the author of twelve novels, including World Made by Hand and The Witch of Hebron, and four nonfiction books, including The Long Emergency and Too Much Magic. He has participated in TED conferences and lectured at Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, MIT, and many other colleges and regularly appears before professional organizations across the country. He lives in upstate New York.

“A History of the Future is the thrilling third novel in Kunstler’s World Made by Hand series. In little Union Grove in upstate New York, the townspeople are preparing for Christmas. Without the consumerist shopping frenzy that dogged the holidays of the previous age, the season has become a time to focus on family and loved ones. Fir swags, wreaths, balsam branches, winterberry, and holly deck the houses, and the newly opened Union Tavern is serving beers, ciders, and whiskeys made in the county. On a stormy Christmas Eve, Robert Earle’s son Daniel arrives back from his two years of sojourning throughout what is left of the United States. He collapses from exhaustion and illness, but as he recovers he tells the story of the breakup of the nation into three independent regions, describing his journey first over to Lake Michigan and then into the dark heart of the New Foxfire Republic, centered in Tennessee and controlled by the female evangelical despot (and former country music star) Loving Morrow. Meanwhile, Union Grove is stunned when a young mother, in the throes of illness, murders her husband and infant son. Town magistrate Stephen Bullock is in a hanging mood.

“The World Made by Hand series continues with increasing literary finesse in the third installment. . . . Kunstler skewers everything from kitsch to greed, prejudice, bloodshed, and brainwashing in this wily, funny, rip-roaring, and profoundly provocative page-turner.” —Booklist (starred review)
The Ginger Man
60th Anniversary Edition
J. P. Donleavy
Introduction by Jay McInerney

“Sebastian Dangerfield [is] one of the most outrageous scoundrels of contemporary fiction, a whoring, boozing young wastrel.” —Time

“A triumph of comic writing . . . no contemporary writer is better than Donleavy at his best.” —New Yorker

“Lusty, violent, wildly funny . . . The Ginger Man is the picaresque novel to stop them all.” —Dorothy Parker, Esquire

“Every man should read this, and spend at least one evening in his life impersonating this unapologetic horror of an individual!” —Johnny Depp in Entertainment Weekly

“It is one of the books which reveal their quality from the first line. On every page there is that immediacy all good writing has.” —V. S. Naipaul

Banned in the United States on its original appearance, J. P. Donleavy’s first novel has gone on to be internationally recognized as a masterpiece. Now marking sixty years since its first publication in Paris, it remains a witty, irresistible modern classic.

Set in Ireland just after World War II, The Ginger Man is a wildly funny, picaresque story of the misadventures of Sebastian Dangerfield, a young American ne’er-do-well studying at Trinity College in Dublin. He barely has time for his studies as he avoids bill collectors, makes love to almost anything in a skirt, and tries to survive without having to descend into the bottomless pit of steady work. Dangerfield’s appetite for women, liquor, and general roushiness is insatiable—and he satisfies it with endless charm.

J. P. DONLEAVY was born in New York City in 1926 and educated there and at Trinity College, Dublin. In 1967 he became an Irish citizen. He is also the author of The Beastly Beatitudes of Balthazar B; The Destinies of Darcy Dancer, Gentleman; A Fairy Tale of New York; Leila; and A Singular Man.
Congratulations to

Young Skins
Winner of the 2014 Frank O’Connor International Short Story Award
978-0-8021-2332-9 • $15 • paperback coming March 2015

The Hired Man
Winner of the 2014 Windham Campbell Prize for Fiction
978-0-8021-2192-9 • $15 • paperback

H Is for Hawk
Shortlisted for the Samuel Johnson Prize
978-0-8021-2341-1 • $25 • cloth

Searching for Zion
A 2014 American Book Award Winner
Finalist for the 2014 Hurston/Wright Legacy Award
978-0-8021-2227-8 • $17 • paperback

Tell
Finalist for the 2014 Scotiabank Giller Prize
978-0-8021-2336-7 • $15 • paperback
Our Award Winners and Finalists

Euphoria
Winner of the 2014 New England Book Award
Winner of the 2014 Kirkus Prize for Fiction
978-0-8021-2255-1 • $25 • cloth
978-0-8021-2370-1 • $15 • paperback coming April 2015

The Woman Who Lost Her Soul
Finalist for the 2014 Pulitzer Prize for Fiction
Winner of the 2014 Dayton Literary Peace Prize for Fiction
978-0-8021-2275-9 • $18 • paperback

An Unnecessary Woman
Finalist for the 2014 National Book Award for Fiction
978-0-8021-2294-0 • $16 • paperback

Wash
Winner of the 2013 Flaherty-Dunnan Debut Novel Prize
A 2014 American Book Award Winner
Finalist for the Dayton Literary Peace Prize

The Great Glass Sea
Shortlisted for the 2014 Flaherty-Dunnan First Novel Prize
978-0-8021-2215-5 • $27 • cloth
978-0-8021-2371-8 • $16 • paperback coming June 2014
INFORMATION FOR THE TRADE

For customer service inquiries or to place an order, open an account, or obtain information on terms and conditions, please call our toll-free number (800) 788-3123 between 9:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. PST, Monday through Friday. You may fax orders to us during all hours: (800) 351-5073.

Mail orders for addresses in the United States should be sent to:
Perseus Distribution
210 American Drive
Jackson, TN 38301

Electronic ordering: (800) 788-3123 (SAN 631760X)

Send all damaged, defective, or overstock returns to:
Publishers Group West
Returns Department
40 Carl Kirkland Drive
Jackson, TN 38301

CANADIAN ORDERING INFORMATION
Please note that all Canadian prices in this catalog are tentative and should be checked with the Canadian distributor.

Please send orders to:
Publishers Group Canada
559 College Street, Unit 402
Toronto, Ontario M6G 1A9
Tel: (416) 934-9900 or (800) 747-8147
Fax: (416) 934-1410

For customer service, credit, and returns:
Raincoast Books
2440 Viking Way
Richmond, BC V6V IN2
Tel: (800) 663-5714
Fax: (800) 565-3770
customerservice@raincoast.com

INTERNATIONAL SALES
Send orders and inquiries for all markets except the following to Publishers Group Worldwide

PUBLISHERS GROUP WORLDWIDE
250 West 57th Street, 15th Floor
New York, NY 10107
Tel: 212-581-7839
inorders@pgw.com

SOUTH AFRICA
Book Promotions
Nicky Stubbs
Office B4, The District
41 Sir Lowry Road
Woodstock, Cape Town
South Africa 7925
Tel: 27 21 469 8932
Fax: 27 (0) 86 270 0825
enquiries@bookpro.co.za

THAILAND, INDONESIA, VIETNAM, CAMBODIA, LAOS
June Poopanich
476/3 Soi Ladprao 47
Wangtonglang,
Bangkok 10310
Tel: 08-96603397, 02-5388318
june.p@live.com

UK, IRELAND, AND EUROPE
GENERAL INQUIRIES
Perseus Books Group UK
69-70 Temple Chambers
3-7 Temple Avenue
London, EC4Y 0HP, UK
Tel: +44 (0) 207 353 7771
Fax: +44 (0) 207 353 7786
enquiries@perseusbooks.co.uk

Ordering Information
Grantham Book Services
Trent Road
Grantham, NG31 7XQ, UK
Tel: +44 (0) 147 654 1080
Fax: +44 (0) 147 654 1061
orders@gb-ts-btd.co.uk (United Kingdom) export@gb-ts-btd.co.uk (Export)

LATIN AMERICA
Edison Garcia
250 West 57th Street, 15th Floor
New York, NY 10107
Tel: 212-340-8170
edison.garcia@perseusbooks.com

AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND
NEWSOUTH BOOKS
Orders and Distribution
15-23 Helles Avenue
Moorebank, NSW 2170
Tel: +61(2) 8778 9999
Fax: +61(2) 8778 9944
orders@tddistribution.com.au

JAPAN AND KOREA
Gilles Fauveau
2-3-25, 9F Kudanminami
Chiyoda-Ku
102-0074 Tokyo, Japan
Tel: (81) 3 32640144
Fax: (81) 3 32640440
gillesfauveau@yahoo.com

INDIA, NEPAL, SRI LANKA,
BANGLADESH, MALDIVES, AND PAKISTAN
Sharad Mohan
Y-311, Agrasen Awas,
66, I. P. Extn, Patparganj,
New Delhi 110092, India
Tel: 91-98107-90604,
91-11-42182212
sharad.pgw@gmail.com

MIDDLE EAST
Suk Lee
Perseus International
250 West 57th Street, 15th Floor
New York, NY 10107
Tel: 212-397-5090
suk.lee@perseusbooks.com

CHINA, HONG KONG, AND TAIWAN
Wei Zhao
2-1-503 UHN International
2 Xi Ba He Dong Li
Chaoyang District
Beijing 100028 China
Tel: 13683018054
Fax: 011 86 10 5130 1051
wzbooks@aol.com

THE PHILIPPINES
Jaime Gregorio
408 Cornell Street, South Pointe
Townhomes
L.P. Leviste Village, Barangay
Merville
Paranaque City, 1700
The Philippines
Tel: 632.822.1108
Fax: 632.824.0835
jaimecarogregorio@gmail.com

ACADEMIC EXAMINATION AND DESK COPIES
Paperback examination and desk copies are available to professors and teachers considering a title for course adoption (hardcover editions are not available). Please make your request in writing on university letterhead, including the course's title and enrollment size, and the name of the bookstore that will be placing the order. To help defray shipping and handling charges, please include $4.00 for the first book and 75¢ for each additional book ordered. Please send your request to Publishers Group West, 1700 Fourth Street, Berkeley, CA 94710.

MEDIA REVIEW COPIES
To request copies of books published by Grove Press, Black Cat, The Mysterious Press, and Atlantic Monthly Press, please contact the publicity department:
Deb Seager, Director of Publicity
Grove Atlantic, Inc.
154 West 14th Street, FL12
New York, NY 10011
Tel: (212) 614-7874
Fax: (212) 614-7886
dseager@groveatlantic.com

COOPERATIVE ADVERTISING REQUESTS
All cooperative advertising must be preapproved. All claims must be submitted within six (6) months of the agreed commencement date. Claims submitted after that period will not be honored. Please send all cooperative advertising requests and preapproved claims to Laura Roberts, PGW, 1700 Fourth Street, Berkeley, CA 94710.
Tel: (510) 528-1444 ext. 242; Fax: (510) 528-9555.

Pricing Information
This catalog lists the suggested cover price. All sellers are free to charge any price they choose for books. All prices, publication dates, and specifications listed in the catalog are tentative and subject to change.
SUBSIDIARY RIGHTS
For information about subsidiary rights contact:
Amy Hundley, Director of Subsidiary Rights
Grove Atlantic, Inc.
154 West 14th Street, FL12
New York, NY 10011
Tel: (212) 614-7934
Fax: (212) 614-7886
e-mail: ahundley@groveatlantic.com

A downloadable foreign-rights guide is available on the subsidiary rights page at www.groveatlantic.com

Permissions
For information on permissions contact:
permissions@groveatlantic.com

For information on film and dramatic rights contact:
rights@groveatlantic.com

GROVE/ATLANTIC, INC., OVERSEAS AGENTS AND REPRESENTATIVES

BRAZIL
Ms. Laura Riff & João Paulo Riff
The Riff Agency
Fax: 55 21 2267 6393
Tel: 55 21 2287 6299
email: laura@agenciariff.com.br joaopaulo@agenciariff.com.br

CHINA & TAIWAN
Ms. Jackie Huang
Beijing Representative Office
Andrew Nurnberg Associates
fax: 86 10 8250 4200
Tel.: 86 10 8250 4106
email: jhuang@nurnberg.com.cn
Ms. Whitney Hsu
Taiwan Representative Office
Andrew Nurnberg Associates
fax: 886 2 2579 8564
Tel.: 886 2 2579 8521
email: whsu@nurnberg.com.tw

CZECH REPUBLIC
Ms. Kristin Olson
Kristin Olson Literary Agency
Fax: 42 02 2258 2042
tel.: 42 02 2258 0048
e-mail: kristin.olson@litag.cz

FRANCE
Ms. Eliane Benisti
Eliane Benisti Agency
Fax: 33 1 4544 1817
Tel.: 33 1 4222 8533
e-mail: eliane@elianebenisti.com

GERMANY
Ms. Elisabeth Ruge
Elisabeth Ruge Agentur GmbH
Tel.: 49 (30) 2888 40600
email: eruge@elisabeth-ruge-agentur.de

GREECE
Ms. Evangelia Avloniti
Ersilia Literary Agency
Tel.: 30 2103454211
e-mail: eavloniti@erssilialit.com

HOLLAND & SCANDINAVIA
Mr. Ulf Tøregard
Ulf Tøregard Agency
Tel.: 46 454 84340
email: ulf@toregardagency.se

HUNGARY
Mr. Peter Bolza
Katai & Bolza
Fax: 36 1 215 4420
Tel.: 36 1 456 0313
email: peter@kataibolza.hu

ITALY
Mr. Marco Vigeveni
Marco Vigeveni Agenzia Letteraria
Tel.: 39 02 86 99 65 53
e-mail: marco@marcovigeveni.com

JAPAN
Mr. Kenny Okuyama
Japan Uni Agency, Inc.
Fax: 81 3 3294 5173
Tel.: 81 3 3295 0301
email: kenny.okuyama@japanuni.co.jp

KOREA
Ms. Kyung Kang
Korea Copyright Center
Fax: 82 2 725 3612
Tel.: 82 2 725 3350
email: khkang@kkccseoul.com

LATVIA, ESTONIA & LITHUANIA
Ms. Tatjana Zoldnere
Synopsis Literary Agency
Fax: 371 6750 6494
Tel.: 371 6750 6495
email: zoldnere@anab.apollo.lv

SPAIN & LATIN AMERICA
Ms. Maribel Luque
Carmen Balcells Agency
Fax: 34 93 200 7041
Tel.: 34 93 200 8933
email: maribel@ag-balcells.com

POLOGNE
Mr. Filip Wojciechowski
Graal, Ltd.
Fax: 48 22 895 2000
Tel.: 48 22 895 2001
email: filip.wojciechowski@graal.com.pl

PORTUGAL
Ms. Anna Bofill
Carmen Balcells Agency
Fax: 34 93 200 8933
Tel.: 34 93 200 7014
email: a.bofill@ag-balcells.com

ROMANIA
Ms. Simona Kessler
International Copyright Agency
Fax: 40 21 316 4794
Tel.: 40 21 316 4806
email: simona@kessler-agency.ro

RUSSIA
Ms. Natalia Sanina
Synopsis Literary Agency
Fax: 7095 781 0183
Tel.: 7095 781 0182
email: nat@synopsis-agency.ru

SERBIA & CROATIA
Mr. Vuk Perisic
Plima Literary Agency
Fax: +381 (11) 304 6386
Tel.: +381 (11) 304 6386
email: vuk@plimaliterary.rs

TURKEY
Ms. Amy Spangler
Anatolialit Agency
Fax: 90 216 700 1089
Tel.: 90 216 700 1088
email: amy@anatolialit.com

EXPLANATION OF EXPORT TERRITORY CODES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Code</th>
<th>Territory</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>US</td>
<td>U.S. only</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>USC</td>
<td>U.S., Canada</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>USOE</td>
<td>U.S., Open Market, excluding Europe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>USO</td>
<td>U.S., Open Market</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>USCO</td>
<td>U.S., Canada, Open Market</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WsC</td>
<td>World, excluding Canada</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WEOU</td>
<td>World, excluding Australia and New Zealand</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>W</td>
<td>World</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

75
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Author</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Baseball Maverick</td>
<td>Steve Kettmann</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barefoot to Avalon</td>
<td>David Payne</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Billingham, Mark, The Bones Beneath</td>
<td>Mark Billingham</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Billingham, Mark, Time of Death</td>
<td>Mark Billingham</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blatt, Ben, and Eric Brewster, I Don't Care if We Never Get Back</td>
<td>Lauren Acampora</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bred in the Bone by Christopher Brookmyre</td>
<td>Christopher Brookmyre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brookmyre, Christopher, Dead Girl Walking</td>
<td>Christopher Brookmyre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooks, Malcolm, Painted Horses</td>
<td>Malcolm Brooks</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bruen, Ken, Green Hell</td>
<td>Ken Bruen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Butcher, Tim, The Trigger</td>
<td>Tim Butcher</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chopra, Aneesh, Innovative State</td>
<td>Aneesh Chopra</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coming of Age at the End of Days by Alice LaPlante</td>
<td>Alice LaPlante</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dead Girl Walking by Christopher Brookmyre</td>
<td>Christopher Brookmyre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Denson, Bryan, The Spy's Son</td>
<td>Bryan Denson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edelman, Gwen, The Train to Warsaw</td>
<td>Gwen Edelman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Euphoria by Lily King</td>
<td>Lily King</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Falling in Love by Donna Leon</td>
<td>Donna Leon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>First to Fly by Charles Bracelen Flood</td>
<td>Charles Bracelen Flood</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flood, Charles Bracelen, First to Fly</td>
<td>Charles Bracelen Flood</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forensics by Val McDermid</td>
<td>Val McDermid</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fox Is Framed by Lachlan Smith</td>
<td>Lachlan Smith</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Ginger Man by J. P. Donleavy</td>
<td>J. P. Donleavy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goddard, Robert, The Ways of the World</td>
<td>Robert Goddard</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goldman, Francisco, The Interior Circuit</td>
<td>Francisco Goldman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Great Glass Sea by Josh Weil</td>
<td>Josh Weil</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Green Hell by Ken Bruen</td>
<td>Ken Bruen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall, Lee, and Tom Stoppard, Shakespeare in Love</td>
<td>Tom Stoppard</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harlan, Will, Untamed</td>
<td>Will Harlan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hayder, Mo, Wolf</td>
<td>Mo Hayder</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Henry, Sue, Murder on the Iditarod Trail</td>
<td>Sue Henry</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>High Crime Area by Joyce Carol Oates</td>
<td>Joyce Carol Oates</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A History of the Future by James Howard Kunstler</td>
<td>James Howard Kunstler</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>House Reckoning by Mike Lawson</td>
<td>Mike Lawson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>House Rivals by Mike Lawson</td>
<td>Mike Lawson</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hughes, Mary-Beth, The Loved Ones</td>
<td>Mary-Beth Hughes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Don't Care If We Never Get Back</td>
<td>Ben Blatt and Eric Brewster</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Innovative State by Aneesh Chopra</td>
<td>Aneesh Chopra</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Interior Circuit by Francisco Goldman</td>
<td>Francisco Goldman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack of Spades by Joyce Carol Oates</td>
<td>Joyce Carol Oates</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>